Young People Wed At Riverside

Planning to offer a happy surprise to their friends, Miss Ella Slocum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Clocum, 511 East Walnut street, and Carl Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Harrison, 317 East First street, motored to Riverside Sunday and were wedded at the First M. E. parsonage there at a quiet ceremony at 2 o'clock.

The Rev. J. L. Gillies, pastor of Riverside First M. E. church, was officiating minister as he has been for many Santa Ana brides who like his genial personality and the impressiveness with which he invests the marriage ceremony.

Miss Slocum wore a smart little black and white ensemble, emphasized by white hat and shoes. There were no attendants. The happy young Mr. and Mrs. Harrison returned to this city and went on to the beach without informing their families or friends of the important step they had taken, but in some manner, the secret was disclosed before the formal announcements were sent out today.

Their honeymoon will be enjoyed later at Catalina Island and in the meantime the young people are staying at the Slocum home and the bride has resumed her place in the office of W. G. Knox, civil engineer, in the Ramona building. Mr. Harrison is with the Newcomb shoe store. They will not go to house-keeping until their return from the deferred honeymoon, when they plan to take an apartment.

Lively Park Party For Departing Family

When Robert Garner completed his final day's duties at the Chandler Furniture store yesterday, preliminary to taking his departure at an early date for Redlands there to manage the Chandler Furniture store of that city, he felt a sense of puzzlement because none of his friends of the store force bade him goodbye or expressed the friendly wishes usually accompanying such a step.

However he dismissed the little hurt feeling from his mind and with Mrs. Garner, accepted the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Reed of the McCune Furniture store, to inform to Orange county park for an informal picnic supper. Arrival at the park was followed by realization of why no farewells had been spoken, for all members of the store force were there together with their families, to enjoy a park party and big picnic supper honoring the Garners.

Such an array of delicious picnic dishes as graced the long table where the merry party gathered! Such a lively interval as followed the supper hour! The outstanding event was the presentation to Mr. Garner of a handsome gold pencil from his friends, Mr. Earl Ruddy making the presentation speech and Mr. Garner responding with much feeling.

Dancing rounded off the happy evening, the party joining forces with Silver Cord Masons and Santa Ana Woman's club in securing an excellent orchestra.

Enjoying the event with the honor guests, Mr. and Mrs. Garner were R. S. Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ruddy and family, Mr. and Mrs. B. Weisner and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Couch and family, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jones and family, Mr. and Mrs. Badke and family, Mr. and Mrs. David Marshall and family, Edward Goetting and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. CHURCH SOCIETIES

Congregational

Twelve young Santa Anans have left for the Southern California Congregational Young Peoples conference which opened yesterday at Claremont where Pomona college is putting its entire dormitory, dining room and athletic equipment at the disposal of the young people. The conference will last a week and the attendance is limited to 300 high school and college students.

A wide range of courses is offered and the faculty consists of such men as Dr. Booth of Long Beach, Drs. Kengott, Simons and Gaylord of Los Angeles, the Rev. and Mrs. Wilson of San Diego, Professors Brooks and Taylor of the Pomona College faculty, Harry Stock of Boston, and Watts O. Tye of China. The Rev. Perry F. Schrock of Santa Ana is of the conference faculty which numbers thirty members. He is teaching a course on World Wide Youth's Movement.

Attending from here are the Misses Dorothy Duggan, Helen Drake, Mary Bruner, Marian Bruner, Alice Churchill, Eleanor Crookshank, Jean Morris, Ninette Rowland, Virginia Powell and Messrs. Henry Powell, Frederick Schrock and Gardiner Watts.

The mornings are given over to study and, the afternoons to athletics.

Legion Auxiliary

The regular meeting of the American Legion auxiliary scheduled for tomorrow night, at Legion hall is the only meeting to be held in July.

All members are urged to come as plans on foot for a beach party and a trip to Camp Kearney will be discussed.

INSURANCE FOR EARTHQUAKES SOUGHT HERE

Earthquake insurance, although a relatively recent kind of financial protection, has been in great demand in Santa Ana since the Santa Barbara disaster. It was learned today, Mac O. Robbins, of the O. M. Robbins and Son firm, asserts that he has even been called to write earthquake insurance while at home.

Earthquake rates are based on the class of construction of buildings and vary with the percentage of value for which they are insured. It was revealed that many of the larger Santa Ana business houses carry earthquake insurance. The rates are lower than for fire insurance.

Cost of Quake Insurance
On a $50,000 downtown structure, a $45,000 earthquake policy for a three-year period would cost about $162. An $80,000 residence could be insured against earthquake damage for $7000 for the same length of time for $26. Damage which is less than one per cent of the value of the property is not provided for, however. Most buildings are insured for 80 to 90 per cent of their value.

Insurance on stocks of merchandise and general contents of buildings also is provided, but an increased rate accompanies it. In some cases, according to Robbins, a 50 per cent increase is asked upon breakables, such as glassware and china, and the same increase applies to drug store stocks. Dry goods and furniture stores can have their goods insured at a 25 per cent increase.

Robbins asserted that fire insurance policies under the California law, become void if an earthquake damages a building to such an extent that any material part of the structure falls. This is not an insurance company ruling, but is a part of the California standard form of fire insurance policy. It was passed by the legislature in 1909, following the San Francisco disaster.

Quotation from Policy
This standard form of policy contains a clause reading: "If a building or any material part thereof shall fall, except as the result of fire, all insurance on this policy on such building or its contents shall immediately cease." The policy provides, however for elimination of this clause under certain conditions, and insurance companies make a slight charge for this. Fire insurance claims in Santa Barbara will be at the minimum under this clause.

News reached local insurance offices today that one company had a loss of $300,000 on the San Marcos building and another a $65,000 loss on another downtown business house.

E. H. Brewster, and children, Hughes and Louise, are visiting in Santa Ana today. Their home is in Dixon, Ill.

The Rev. Burton Y. Neal, former pastor of the Free Methodist church of Santa Ana and now pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church at Bakersfield, was in the city today, completing plans for coming to Santa Ana next week to remain for a month. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Burton. They will be located at the Spurgeon Bungalow apartments.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Otis of 1330 North Main street, had the pleasure of a brief visit from the latter's sister, Mrs. Ashbaugh and her daughter, Miss Mary Ashbaugh who are returning to Connecticut after a several years' sojourn in California cities, including La Jolla where they made their headquarters.

Mrs. William L. Tubbs of 106 East Eleventh street is enjoying a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller of Omaha, Neb. Mrs. Miller is Mrs. Tubbs' niece. The visitors came by the northern route, visiting Seattle, Portland and San Francisco and during their stay here plan to see Catalina Island, stopping en route home, at various points of interest. Mr. Miller is a business man in his home city and is taking a month's vacation.

Mrs. W. B. Tedford of 2003 North Broadway went to Los Angeles on Monday evening, accompanying home her son, Dr. Granville Tedford, and Mrs. Tedford, and remaining there until this evening when she leaves for Morgan Hill, where she will be a guest of her daughter, and from there she goes to the Tedford ranch in Sonoma county. She will be away two months.

Mrs. Ida Blee of 320 Orange avenue is at Anaheim Landing for a summer visit with the family of her son, Robert Blee of Puente, who are sojourning at that pleasant resort. Mr. Blee teaches in the Puente schools.

Mrs. Hortense Didier of 628 Garfield street has returned from a two months' visit in Ventura with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Taylor.

Friends of Mrs. W. J. Fleming, mother of Mrs. Robert McKnight and Mrs. J. H. Randall of 219 East Chestnut avenue, are welcoming her home after a six months' absence in Shawnee, Okla. and Fort Smith, Ark., where she has relatives.

Miss Vesta Marrs arrived here today to pass the summer at the home of her mother and sister, Mrs. Mary Marrs and Miss Thursa Marrs. The visitor is a teacher in the schools at Chicago.

Mrs. W. A. West and daughter, Mrs. W. H. Mize, were home today from Gilman's Hot Springs, where they have been for the past three weeks for the benefit of Mrs. Mize's health.

Mrs. Clifford Dutcher of 1212 West Russell street, left Monday morning for a four months' trip east. She will visit a number of friends and relatives in New York and Connecticut, returning here the last of October.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Smith and daughter Leile, accompanied by John F. Potter and family of Los Angeles have gone to stay over the Fourth at their Forest Home cabin.

Mrs. L. S. Elliott, Mrs. J. B. Owens and daughter, Frances of Santa Cruz are guests at the S. R. Byler home. They left Santa Barbara just before the earthquake there.

Mrs. Walter Guiley and daughter of Oakland, and Mrs. Baker and daughter of Los Angeles have been visiting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Watkins, 702 Bush street, for the last two days.

LIONS TO INSTALL OFFICERS THURSDAY

Lions and Lionesses of Santa Ana today were looking forward to a big social evening at St. Ann's Inn at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow, when officers elected last Thursday will be formally installed.

Harold E. Wahlberg, president of the club, stated today that serving of dinner would start promptly at 6:30 and that he and Mrs. Wahlberg would take their places at the table at that hour if they had to do so alone.

"We have a big program and it is necessary that the evening be started at the designated hour," Wahlberg said.

Several surprise features have been arranged, with Andy Anderson directing organization of the entertainment.

Dr. Elliott H. Rowland will have charge of the installation ceremonies.

Following the official business of the evening, dancing will be featured, with a first class orchestra present to play dance music.

The event tomorrow will inaugurate the annual formal installation of officers and it is the desire of the club membership to make this one of the biggest of the social affairs of each club year.

GERMANS SPEED UP IN RACE FOR WORLD'S TRADE

MUNICH, June 30.—Germany has arisen gingerly from her post-war sick-bed and tossed her cap into the ring of nations competing for world technical supremacy. The opening of the traffic and communications exhibition here startled those deluded observers who believed that Germany is lying prone and gasping for breath.

Top-hatted government officials read long and sonorous speeches about the meaning of the exhibit. A deluge of leaflets and books, distributed among the guests, described the historical significance of this or that mechanical device. But the exposition itself seemed to deliver its message most eloquently. That message was:

"No foreign power or group of powers can place its heel on the neck of a great nation and hold it prostrate. Sixty million people, agile, hard working and with a brilliant record of accomplishment in wartime and before, are getting back on their feet. Germany is not merely recovering her former position, but is blazing new trails along the highways of technology."

Transport Advances
Germany's advance in land, water and air transport were unfolded when the curtain rose on the Munich exposition. One examined the latest winks in turbine engines and high pressure boilers. One saw the swift electrification of Germany's vast railway network for harnessing alpine waterfalls to man's needs. Other pioneering inventions conjured up pictures of German's super-harbors, locks, dams, bridges.

It was no coincidence that the exposition was opened in the immense Munich aerodrome. For aviation played a leading role throughout the exhibition. A model radio super-station, set up for the occasion, disclosed how deeply Germany has delved into the mysteries of ether and electro-magnetism.

In a special hall, a whole host of office functioned with lightning-like rapidity, assisted by devices calculated to treble the speed of human communication. Elsewhere, a miniature automatic telephone system presaged the passing of the Hello-girl forever.

Cry for Speed
Before the war, folks used to speak of German efficiency catching up with American. Nowadays, the German home, railway, telegraph, seafaring and radio are being "Americanized." Germany is being conquered by the great god "Time-is-Money."

Whether this is all to the good is another question. One is often told, "You Americans are delighted and boastful when you point to your trains, which not only arrive punctually, but occasionally ahead of time. But tell me this: When you reach New York three minutes earlier than schedule, just what do you do with those three minutes?"

"Why," one explains, indignantly, "We save time and money."

"And what use do you make of the extra time and money?" is inevitably the second question. "Of course," one elucidates, "we save more time and money."

But somehow, the European is not easily convinced that economy of time and cash is a reason for living. These Europeans, with their peculiar mental twists, believe that other things in life count for more.

Indeed, the mechanization of life in Europe along the American pattern with standardization of men and ideas, is breeding intense discontent. A growing reaction can be discerned against the accelerated rhythm of living. Folk over here are not sure that they wish quite so much progress, thank you. If it interferes with their postprandial coffee and afternoon nap.

And so, in a broader sense, the Munich exposition presages a great conflict—the dawning struggle between the easygoing habits of life in the East and the turbulent, headlong efficiency of the new western world.

That, however, is another story. And it may be said definitely that this exhibition of Germany's technical prowess serves as a warning to Americans who believe their superiority to be beyond challenge.

Governors Send Sympathy Wire On Earthquake

SACRAMENTO, July 1.—A message of sympathy to the victims of the Santa Barbara quake was received here yesterday from the National Conference of Governors, in session at Poland Springs, Me. The message, sent to Governor Richardson, said:

"The Conference of Governors, now in session, desires to express to you and through you to the people of California, a deep regret of the catastrophe which has afflicted Santa Barbara and your state, and to express its sympathy to the victims of the disaster. The results may not be so terrible as press reports indicate."

STINNES NAME REGARDED AS POWER SYMBOL

BY GUNTHER TONN
(United Press Berlin Correspondent)

BERLIN. (By mail to the United Press).—The name of Stinnes, always a synonym for economic power, during the war and the post-war period associated with gigantic wealth of American proportions. The late Hugo Stinnes, Germany's "uncrowned king" had been one of the first to realize the tremendous economic possibilities of currency inflation. For four years he played that difficult game to perfection, and on his death-bed, a little over a year ago, he left his wife, Frau Claire Stinnes, a veritable business empire. From the Cape of Good Hope to Canada and from Spain to China the name of Stinnes had become a household word signifying the wrapping of a thousand commercial threads around one spool.

After Stinnes' death his empire was divided into three parts. The eldest son, 27-year-old Dr. Edmund Stinnes, with headquarters in Berlin, directed the chemical, automobile, pulp and newspaper interests. The second son, Hugo Jr. in Hamburg controlled the steamship lines and overseas dominions, notably in South America. The heavy industrial and electrical interests, finally, were grouped around the original nucleus of the combine, namely the firm of Matthias Stinnes in Muehlheim-on-the-Ruhr.

A few months ago gossip told of dissensions in the Stinnes family in which Hugo's widow plays a marital role. Personal, political and economic disputes were reported to be tugging at the structure of the House of Stinnes. Considering that the sons and daughters of the late Hugo, who had himself sprung from dynasty of hard-headed business men, had all inherited their father's initiative, energy and stubbornness, well-informed circles always suspected a certain amount of truth in these rumors, and were not surprised at the recent announcement that the eldest son had left the nest to start out on his own responsibility.

Dr. Edmund Stinnes will henceforth devote himself entirely to the insurance and automobile interests which have passed under his sole control. Amongst the most noteworthy of the latter is the Aga Automobile factory near Berlin. Great extensions are planned here, and it is expected that soon the output of the Aga, which will concentrate on one popular type, will rival that of Germany's largest automobile producer, the Opel Works, and approach the Ford pattern.

Just what released the tension within the family has not been divulged. It would, however, be crediting the firm with little business acumen to suppose that it was merely a petty personal quarrel of the family represented by Frau Stinnes. The discussions are deeper than that and are probably of an economic or rather, organizational nature. Dr. Edmund Stinnes' recent article in the "Credit Monthly" opposing protectionism, which was widely noted in Germany, strengthens belief of the protective tariff is the issue over which the family ship went on the rocks. At any rate, there is no immediate responsibility of the breach affecting German industry. Indeed, the breach appears to gather the scattered Stinnes interests in one hand.

Capital Letter

WASHINGTON, June 30.—"Coolidge has forgotten Oklahoma." This was getting to be quite a slogan among "sooner state" Republicans.

Job after job had come up in Washington to be filled, but no Oklahomans were picked to fill any of them.

Again and again they thought they had a dandy candidate. Time after time it looked as if their man was sure to win out.

Just as regularly, somebody else nosed in ahead of him at the last minute.

This went on until Oklahoma Republicanism began to show signs of considerable fractiousness, which was alarming, Oklahoma being a very doubtful state politically, with a senator to elect next year, not to mention eight congressmen.

But Coolidge hadn't forgotten. He simply was waiting for a duly qualified Oklahoma candidate's name to be submitted to him for a nice federal appointment.

When, finally, such a candidate did turn up, the president promptly named him assistant attorney general in charge of government land litigation. He's Bert M. Parmenter. The mysterious qualification? Oh, he's a native Vermonter.

Bethel's his "old home town"—about 15 miles from the Coolidge place. Also in Attorney General Sargent's neck of the woods. Parmenter lived there until he was 20.

For all his New England origin and accent, Parmenter's a thorough Oklahoman now.

He landed on the site of Lawton 24 years ago. The site alone was there at the time.

"The Kiowa, Comanche and Apache reservation," he explains, "had just been opened to settlement. The government had cut the land into farms, to be drawn for."

"In their midst the town of Lawton had been decreed and staked out in city lots. They were auctioned off."

"That town certainly was made to order," Parmenter reminisced. "At the beginning of the week—virgin wilderness. By mid-week—a thriving, little tented city of about 3000!"

"I wasn't quick enough to get a number for the farm lottery, so there was nothing for me to do but buy a town lot, pitch my tent on it and settle down to practice law."

"There was precious little of it for the first few weeks—a little federal authority, but not much, and no local organization at all."

"Shootings," the new attorney general continued, "were so common they went unnoticed. A man was killed three times from mine one night and I didn't think it worth while to get up, or find out next day what the fight was about or who the killer and his victim were."

"I never learned. Gambling was wide open. Let 'er roll! Let 'er roll! Let 'er roll! NOW SHE ROLLS!" came day and night from the big tent where they ran the wheel."

"It may have been only a coincidence," Parmenter observed, "but Lawton started with 150 lawyers and 150 saloons."

"The saloons are neither here nor there. But you can understand, with so many lawyers, we had to have some law. So we organized a local government in a month or six weeks."

"We established order. We began building wooden shacks in place of our tents. In six months the railroad built in."

"Then Oklahoma was admitted as a state."

Parmenter is going to be popular with the press—for he doesn't bluff.

I called on him a few hours after he'd assumed his new duties. He wasn't fairly started and hadn't much to do.

That's the time the average officeholder pretends to be up to his neck in work. But not Parmenter.

When I promised to be brief, "Take your time. I'm not very busy," he said.

SEE-SAWING

BY EDDIE WEST

Up and Down Fourth Street

This is July. Ten years ago at this time one could not walk down to work in the morning without passing hundreds of girls, who wore their tresses down their backs pigtail fashion, and matronly women and barelegged kids on their way to the orchards to harvest the apricot crop. Remember when you used to make four-bits a day picking "cots"? No apricot army will descend on those orchards this year because apricot orchards have disappeared almost magically but the clank of dollars in the orange and walnut growers' safety deposit boxes will drown out the groans, if any.

Saw Kenneth Morrison, who used to pedal a bicycle laboriously to and from the courthouse before he became justice of the peace, at the wheel of a brand new enclosed automobile. Went into the Mateer Drug store and discovered Art Morrow, a clerk in the act of pasting pictures of the Balboa bathing parade winners on a large piece of cardboard which evidently was to be displayed in the window. Walked to the rear of the Mateer store and while eating lunch overheard Jim Rhine, proprietor of the fountain, tell "Sunny" Sunday that he hit a golf ball 300 yards with a new driver for which he was set back $1.50. Saw Superior Judge Z. B. West driving down Broadway in his automobile the number of which is 624, the same as his office telephone. Passed the corner of Fourth and Ross streets where West Coast Theaters Inc. is going to build a $300,000 playhouse. Couldn't help but emit a spoken hope that some way, somehow some of those grand old shade trees on the property may be preserved. Looked across the street, saw some workmen in the last stages of razing one of the city's oldest landmarks and thought of the old adage, "time changes all things." Shook hands with George Briggs, Santa Ana capitalist, who has just returned from a trip to Alaska where, hunting from boat, he got his limit of bear. Saw W. B. Williams come out of the First National bank and W. B. was wearing the same kind of a big black hat that he sported when he was

JUDGE RESIGNS, AND LATER HE WANTS JOB BACK

The resignation of Leo Goepper, of Balboa, as justice of the peace for Newport Beach township, was effective today, having been filed with and accepted by the county supervisors late yesterday. No successor has been named.

Justice Goepper, who resigned because of poor health, was said to have sought to withdraw his resignation after filing it. The board had, however, acted upon it. This reported situation gave rise to speculation as to whether the Newport Beach magistrate would be a candidate for the appointment to succeed himself.

Justice Goepper had previously filed his resignation, last April 23, but withdrew it before the supervisors had acted upon it.

THE MILK SITUATION

Santa Ana, Calif., July 1, 1925.

Editor Register:—An article appeared in The Register recently relative to the milk situation. The author complained that, in the light of the price paid to the producer for his product, the consumer was being charged too much for his milk. He hinted at a "nigger in the woodpile."

I am glad this subject has been brought to the fore, for there are hundreds of people in Santa Ana who feel the same way about this matter.

Why should prices paid for milk here be nearly double that paid for milk in other states? To illustrate, take Topeka, Kansas. There a quart of milk costs the consumer 9 cents, a pint 5 cents. Here the price paid is 15 cents and 8 cents. Kansas is not essentially a dairy state; California is. It costs no more here to produce a quart of milk than it costs there. Then why the difference in the price of same?

The answer to this question is patent to every one who has given the subject a moment's thought, namely, the bottle or container. To paraphrase, the "nigger in the woodpile" is the bottle in the junkpile. Topeka charges the consumer 9 cents provided he brings an empty bottle. Santa Ana charges 15 cents whether one brings one empty or a gunny sack full of empties. Topeka, therefore, rewards honesty and thoughtfulness in that the customer who returns his bottle gets credit for 6 cents, while Santa Ana compels this class to pay for the carelessness and neglect of the other class.

Bottles cost money and the consumer is paying the bill. Right now there reposes in the back yards and city dumps thousands of empty milk bottles. Where does the responsibility of this flagrant waste of property lie? I answer most emphatically that the responsibility rests wholly with the distributor. He finds it easier to exact the price of an empty bottle from the consumer than to shoulder the task of looking after it himself. The public has been made the goat. And as a result of this manifestly unfair method on the part of the distributor, hundreds of children are being deprived of an essential diet they should have and would have if milk could be purchased at a fair price.

clerk of Orange county, all of which isn't any of my business. Chatted with Victor Walker, the sporting goods dealer, and Victor told me that in his new store, which is to be just a few doors from the corner of Broadway at Fourth street, he is going to build a special room for "the boys" who make his place their rendezvous. In this room "the boys" may go the limit with their football arguments this fall. Saw some men painting "loading zone" and "parking" signs on our downtown curbs and prayed that these men don't spell "loading" in the manner that some curb painters spelled safety "safty" during a safety week campaign here a few years ago. Saw Joe Steele, the tonsorial expert from Texas, abroad in our streets wearing a wide-brimmed straw "sombbrero" as is his want. He seldom dons a coat whether it be winter or summer rain or shine. Saw him doing didoes on a sort of trapeze that he had rigged up in the rear of his barber shop and got to thinking that maybe men as well as others are going in for this reducing thing.

Passed a modest little white house on the way home to my supper. Yes, supper—not dinner, a kid on his back, snapping his suspenders and yelling "Giddy-yap!" The

CLAIMS QUAKES HAVE RELIEVED EARTH TENSION

VICTORIA, B. C., July 1.—The Southern California and Montana earthquakes will tend to insure this part of the world from danger of similar occurrences in the near future, in the opinion of Napier Denison, of the meteorological observatory on Galzales hill, where one of the most sensitive seismographs in the world is located.

Denison said the quakes mean that a tension on the earth's surface has been relieved between here and Quebec, where earth shocks were felt about two months ago.

After the Quebec earthquake, a reaction in some other parts of the world was anticipated. Denison said it was not likely that other parts of California will feel the earthquakes.

For a week previous to the shocks, there was a portentous week's lull. A week of perfect quiet on the seismograph, with no tremors in any part of the world, is an ominous sign that a severe quake is due, Denison declared, and it first struck Montana and then California.

Earthquakes are recorded virtually every day in the Pacific.

WILL DISCUSS IRRIGATION AT FARM MEETING

An important irrigation meeting, to which all farmers of Orange county are invited, will be held at the Segerstrom & Sons farm here July 6, at 2 p. m., it was announced today by W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor.

The duty of water in irrigating alfalfa, pump, economics and the measurement of water are among the subjects which will be discussed at the gathering.

J. P. Brown, irrigation specialist of the University of California, who with Cory will conduct the meeting, is one of the best known irrigation experts in the state.

All persons interested in irrigation practices are extended an invitation to attend the meeting.

but they are usually under the ocean where no importance is attached to them. Denison scoffed at the suggestions that shocks might be caused through a settling down of the earth after millions of gallons of oil are pumped out. There is not the slightest chance that earthquakes can be traced to oil operations, he said.

WETTLIN HANDS DOWN OPINION IN BATTLE FOR SCHOOL RIGHTS

Deputy Attorney Claims Discretionary Power Is Held by Superintendent

WRITTEN STATEMENT SENT TO MITCHELL

Says State Places Duty on County Official Instead Of on Court

That a county superintendent of schools has discretionary powers in the matter of either permitting or denying students from the Brea-Olinda high school district to attend the Fullerton high school, such powers to be exercised in the best interests of the school district, is the gist of an opinion handed down by the district attorney of Orange county.

The opinion of the district attorney was asked by R. P. Mitchell, county superintendent of schools, following requests from parents residing in Olinda, to send their children to the Fullerton high school, instead of availing themselves of the facilities offered by the newly created Brea-Olinda high school district. These requests were turned down by the Brea-Olinda high school board, and the action was sustained by the county superintendent.

Attorney Gives Opinion. The county superintendent based his refusal on the ground that the granting of these requests would involve double taxation and waste of public funds, inasmuch as the local high school district already was made provisions for the students.

Not satisfied with the decision of the high school board and the county superintendent, some of the parents carried the matter to the state superintendent of public instruction, in Sacramento.

Opinion of Attorney. The opinion, written by Deputy District Attorney D. G. Wettlin, follows: "Replying to your request for an opinion of this office relative to attendance in high school districts, be it said that this matter is controlled by Section 1751 of the political code, which provides, among other things, as follows, to-wit: "Any graduate of the elementary schools of this state and any

COOLIDGES TAKE STROLL AT SUMMER WHITE HOUSE

The President and Mrs. Coolidge get acquainted with their new surroundings at Swampscott, Mass., which has become the summer "White House." Of course, Bob Roy, the White House pet, goes along and a crowd of well-wishers waits upon the piazza.

County Publicity Agent Loses Job In Economy Move

Economy, "a la Coolidge," was assigned today as the reason for action of the county supervisors in yesterday terminating the employment of J. Fred Ahlborn, of Anaheim, as county publicity representative.

The post was abolished by the board in the interest of expense reduction, it was said.

The attached activities, it is understood, will be carried on through other channels so far as necessary. Ahlborn has been filling the position at a salary of $200 a month.

Son of S. A. Man Unhurt In Quake; Home Is Damaged

E. A. Spaulding, of Costa Mesa, has received a post card from his son, the Rev. Clarence A. Spaulding, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Santa Barbara, stating that he and his family were uninjured, but that their home, automobile and the church had been damaged by the earthquake Monday.

According to the card, the quake knocked the chimney off the house and on to the automobile. The tower on the church caved in and carried the roof and balcony with it.

DEFENSE TEST PLANS Praised BY WELLINGTON

'Long Hairs,' Opposed to Movement, Decried by Officer Before Exchange

Explaining plans of the government for mobilizing the citizenship of the United States in case of war, Col. M. B. Wellington, speaking at the meeting yesterday of the Exchange club, declared that, if Gen. J. J. Pershing had never done anything more than develop the plans that will be tested on July 4, National Defense day, the war hero would have fully justified his popularity of today.

In the opinion of Wellington, the plans are perfect, and he directed attention to the fact that records are maintained in the war department by which trained men and selective draft boards could start functioning within 24 hours after a declaration of war.

Decried 'Long Hairs' Decrying "long hairs" who are opposing the National Defense day program, Wellington said that there are enough red-blooded men in this nation to see that the demonstration is successful, and that the plans will be maintained.

"The citizenship is the backbone of our national defense and it must be trained, equipped and put in the field in large numbers before it can give the real punch necessary to defeat an enemy," the speaker said in pointing to experiences of the World War, when it took virtually 15 months to train citizens and make them effective in the overseas struggle.

"We will never see that condition repeated in these United States," the reserve officer added, in stressing value of plans that have been developed for quick mobilization of the fighting forces of this government.

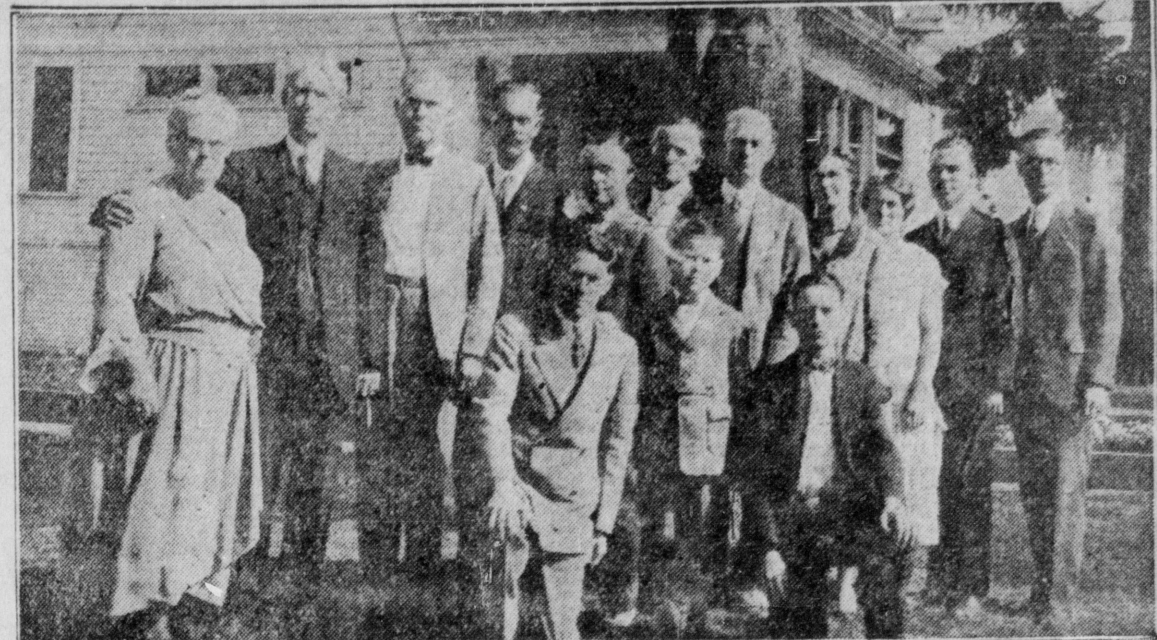

Tribute to Officers C. J. Watters, second lieutenant of Company F, the local National Guard company, spoke briefly of the company and what members are doing to perfect themselves in the art of war. He spoke of the annual encampment to be held in Del Monte. The local company will leave here Friday morning, at 8:30 o'clock, by Pacific Electric train, for Los Angeles, and in the evening will entrain for the encampment point. Wellington followed the lieutenant, and took occasion to say that the local company is one of the best drilled units in the state. He paid tribute to the officers for the time and study they are giving in preparing for proper discharge of the obligations falling upon them.

At the convention, Everett W. Hill, international president, sounded many keynotes, declared Stephenson, among them being an appeal to Rotarians to stand everywhere against intolerance. Hill, according to Stephenson, said that in the Rotary idea friendliness and understanding are essential.

That the convention of International Rotary held in Cleveland, O., was a convention with the sole aim of benefitting others besides those present and represented, and that Rotary has come to be a great world force, were among points emphasized in reports made to the Santa Ana club by O. M. Robbins and T. E. Stephenson, who represented the Santa Ana club at the convention.

"Rotary through its organization of business men throughout the world, fighting as it does for world peace," said Robbins, "has become an effective organization. That this is true was shown time and again during the convention. The international character of the organization was depicted. Some of the delegates representing foreign countries said that the Rotary idea of service promulgated among their business men had brought about marked changes."

2000 Clubs Represented. Robbins reviewed the immensity of the gathering at which 2000 clubs were represented by nearly 10,000 delegates.

Information gathered concerning how other clubs are conducted was given to the Santa Ana club by Stephenson, who said that for practical information the four days spent on the Rotary special train, bearing 240 Californians, were rich in results.

At the convention, Everett W. Hill, international president, sounded many keynotes, declared Stephenson, among them being an appeal to Rotarians to stand everywhere against intolerance. Hill, according to Stephenson, said that in the Rotary idea friendliness and understanding are essential.

Striking Analysis Given. "It was Canon William Elliott, of Liverpool, England," said Stephenson, "who presented the most striking analysis given."

Santa Barbara Is Free from Looting

SANTA BARBARA, July 1.—Published reports that valuable plunder had been taken from the ruins of the Catholic church and that other looting was going on in the quake stricken region were denied by Chief of Police L. Desgland-champ.

"There has not been a single case of looting or disorder," the police chief said. "As a matter of fact, we have thousands of dollars in jewelry and other valuables at headquarters that were brought to us by citizens which we are holding for owners."

Approximately $40,000 in gems were recovered from the wreckage of the Hotel Arlington after three Los Angeles detectives were slightly injured when a floor gave way with them while they were searching for the valuables.

BIG INCREASE IN CAPITAL OF BANK

Publication in the Register today of the combined statement of the Bank of Italy and Stockholders Auxiliary corporation reveals that the total banking capital of the institution has been increased to more than $1,800,000, including more than $1,800,000 in undivided profits in the last six months.

According to L. J. Paul, assistant manager of the local branch of the financial institution, the big banking organization in the half year increased its holding of bonds by more than $100,000,000, more than $90,000,000 being invested in governmental obligations. Included in the latter sum is $75,000,000 in bonds and certificates of indebtedness, Clark says, that, with one exception, this is the largest government bond account of any of the nation's banks.

"The half year has been a splendid one for the Bank of Italy," Clark said. "The number of depositors has increased to more than 500,000, a gain of nearly 5,000 at the same time, the deposits have grown to more than $337,000,000, while total resources now amount to $370,000,000."

"When it is considered that these figures include reports from our institution throughout the entire state, and reflect the progress that has been made in 64 separate and distinct communities, from the Mexican border almost to the Oregon line, it becomes evident that California is enjoying a prosperous year."

POULTRYMEN PLAN REWARD CAMPAIGN

The campaign of the poultry department of the Orange County Farm bureau to secure a fund of $1000 to be used as a reward against thieves, took active form last night, when a committee was appointed to visit the 15 county farm centers and urge them to name committees to collect one cent per hen from each poultryman.

E. H. Koenig, M. E. Hill and W. M. Cory were appointed a committee by the poultrymen, who held their monthly session at Ketter's cafe last night.

Approximately $600 is needed for the fund, $400 previously having been raised in other ways. With the reward in force, poultrymen believe that thieves will, to a large extent, be eliminated from Orange county. The annual losses suffered by poultrymen reaches a high figure and many of them are unable to stand the losses. It is declared.

Communities that have tried the reward system have found it successful, it is said.

No Tidal Wave In Horizontal Quake

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Santa Barbara might have been engulfed by a tidal wave had the earth cracked vertically instead of horizontally, scientists here said today. The tremendously destructive vertical earthquakes, such as those in Japan in 1923, are always accompanied by tidal waves.

APPEAL FILED ON CONVICTION IN BOOZE CASE

An appeal of Robert Paul, of Brea, from conviction on a liquor charge in local justice court, was on file today, following his trial yesterday.

The jury, after brief deliberation, returned a verdict of guilty in connection with a possession charge, which was one of several liquor charges against Paul, his wife, Anna Paul, and Herman Ramsey, all of Brea.

City Marshal McClure, of Brea, appears as complaining witness in each case. Besides the charge tried yesterday, a possession charge was filed against Ramsey, and a charge of selling liquor was brought against Ramsey and Mrs. Paul, jointly. Preliminary hearing of the selling charge Monday resulted in Ramsey and Mrs. Paul being held to answer in superior court, under bail of $1000 each.

Ramsey will go to trial on a possession charge against him July 23, at 9 a. m., in local justice court, according to present plans.

Attorney F. H. Jacobs, of Brea, defended Paul yesterday. Deputy District Attorney Kenneth H. Burns conducted the prosecution. Following the verdict of guilty, Attorney Jacobs promptly gave notice that the case would be appealed to superior court.

Jacobs also represents Mrs. Paul and Ramsey in the court proceedings against them.

Writes Brother Of Experiences In Earthquake

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Squires, 529 Castilian street, Santa Barbara, was slightly damaged in the quake there Monday morning according to a letter received here today by John Doerr, a brother of Mrs. Squires. Fortunately none of the family was injured.

Writing of her experience to her brother, Mrs. Squires says: "The damage to our house is slight. We lost the chimney and the walls are badly cracked. Things inside were piled in the middle of the rooms and damaged them. Nearly every dish we had was smashed. We are living outside. A great many of the houses in this neighborhood are in ruins. The reservoir is broken, gas is shut off and the situation is anything but pleasant. Monday night we all slept outside, and every time we felt a shock we jumped up and walked around in the street—sometimes it was terrible."

"It seems too bad for Santa Barbara had certainly done a great deal of improving in the last few years—and now State street is in ruins."

Stocks Recover On Wall Street

NEW YORK, July 1.—Wall street's fear that the Santa Barbara earthquake had caused considerable damage to properties of California companies listed on the stock exchange here, was allayed when it was apparent that most of the disturbance was local and stocks made brisk recoveries yesterday from the recessions forced Monday on news of the quake.

Two Suspects Are Held By Police

Lowell Edmondson, alias Al Lord, 20, and George Goodson, 19, are being held by the police for investigation, following their arrest last week.

Both had been acting suspiciously, according to officers who took them into custody. Edmondson was said to have "ditched" a gun in a local rooming house about five minutes before his arrest, thus lending credence to a report that the pair had been planning a holdup.

CHILDREN ARE CONSTITUENTS OF REAL HOME, SAYS S. A. MAN

Louis Hamilton Hill, Baker, Is Father of 12 and Grandfather of 34

IS DEMOCRAT BUT BOOSTS COOLIDGE

70-year-old Resident Admired Roosevelt; Home Is Safeguard of Nation

"As long as this country will produce enough plain, honest folk—sturdy Americans to whom fear of God and the love of country and its institutions are part of their daily lives—that long America is in safe hands. We shall not need to worry about America being absorbed by an alien population, nor shall we have to be worried about race suicide, bolshevism and other direful things predicted by busy wiseacres."

The speaker is Louis Hamilton Hill, the proud father of 12 children. He also has 34 grandchildren and a growing assortment of great grandchildren. "Daddy" Hill, as he is better known to his many friends in the community, is still young at 70, and always is on the job in the bakery shop in the Grand Central market.

Is College Booster He was born Oct. 7, 1855, in Franklin, Heard county, Ga. His father was killed in the Civil war. It goes without saying that he is a southerner by birth, training and instinct, and votes the Democratic ticket. There are two big exceptions in his political orientation—"Teddy" Roosevelt and Calvin Coolidge. In fact he voted for the latter at the last presidential election.

Being the head of a big family, it is only natural that he should be an admirer of the Rough Rider. "Some of these smart people whose lives are bound up in killing time and playing society, used to poke fun at his talks on race suicide," Hill commented, speaking of Roosevelt.

Greatest Safeguard "These people, themselves evading the duty and responsibility of parenthood, could not understand that to Roosevelt children meant home and family—the joy of young years and the citizenship of tomorrow, all in one."

"They could not understand that this intensely patriotic American saw in the home the greatest safeguard for the preservation of the republic and its institutions—and that without children there can be no real home."

Hill has been married twice. With his first wife, who was Miss Parolina Hallman, of Alabama, he had 10 children, seven boys and three girls. One of the girls passed away when a baby. Born to this union were William Edward, now engaged in the drug business in Dallas, Tex.; James Thomas, a farmer, at Burleson, Tex.; Samuel Martin, real estate broker, Santa Ana; Jesse Caruth, rancher, Newport road, Santa Ana; Jabez Smith, partner, Hill and Carden, Santa Ana; Mrs. Emma D. McClinden, now living in Texas; Mrs. Ona A. McElvaney, El Centro, Calif.; Pope C. clothier, Pasadena; Louis Bert, clothier, Whittier. The mother of these children died Oct. 2, 1924.

Married Second Time The following year, Hill married Miss Eliza C. Sumner, to which union were born four children. One of them, Nellie, died when a

MRS. BORGELIN'S REMARKABLE RECOVERY

Gives Credit for Restored Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. All Women Interested

MRS. OSCAR F. BORGELIN
FOREST CITY, IOWA

Forest City, Iowa. — "My first child lived only a short time and I was sick for a year after. When I bent over almost scream with pain in my back. One day I was so bad that I had to leave my washing and get ready to go to the doctor. He gave me medicine, but it did no more good than if I drank just water. Once when we had been in town a little book telling about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was left in our car. I have taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound now and I do all my housework and help with the milking, and taking care of chickens and garden. Besides I have a fine baby girl eight months old, just the picture of health, and I am feeling fine myself. You may use this letter as a testimonial and I will answer any letters asking about the Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. OSCAR F. BORGELIN, Route No. 5, Forest City, Iowa.

A Bad Case of Nerves Relieved

Denver, Colorado. — "I was very despondent, blue and sad all the time, which is worse than real pain, and extremely nervous, with no appetite. I was this way for about two years and thought no one cared for me. My mother had had the same trouble and had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it. I tried everything else, then I began to take it. I soon had a better appetite and restored mental condition. I moved to a bright, sunny house, began calling on different people, and changed many other things. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash for my female weakness. With the aid of your medicines I am now a fairly healthy, happy and contented woman. I've used the Vegetable Compound at different times and will say it always helps me over the bad spells that come to every woman past 40 years." — Mrs. HELEN FINE, 35 South Washington Street, Denver, Colorado.

"BLACK CYCLONE" FILM OF REAL THRILLS

Few more exciting films have appeared recently than "Black Cyclone," the Hal Rouch production that features Rex, the wild horse, at the West End theater. As refreshing and invigorating as the wind which swept the Nevada plains where it was photographed, it is a clean, vivid picture of the life of a horse—and if you think it lacks in drama you must see Rex making love to Lady, a thoroughbred; or see Rex's spirited fights with a mountain lion, a wolf pack and the Killer, a villain if there ever was one in horse flesh.

The way these horses perform is little short of miraculous. Every move is life-like, natural and registers, and you are convinced that Rex is the wild horse he portrays. The way he puts over his story is truly remarkable, and the effect has been further enhanced by admirable subtitles. The direction of Fred Jackman shows the touch of genius, while new artistic heights have been achieved in photography.

"EVE'S SECRET" CLOSING AT YOST TONIGHT

Betty Compson had a taste of the old vaudeville days while "Eve's Secret," co-starring her and Jack Holt, was being filmed.

One of the sequences called for bathing beach scenes at high tide. The point of location was several hours' ride by automobile from Miss Compson's home in Flintridge.

To catch the right tide, work on production had to start soon as there was sufficient light. Just like catching a train for a quick jump on the vaudeville circuit where Miss Compson started her stage career, she was up before daylight. On the way she slept curled up on the back seat of her limousine as she used to do she said, in the coach of a train. Shortly before the beach was reached her chauffeur called her, she put on her make-up, and was all ready for the first click of the camera.

The supporting cast of "Eve's Secret," which closes at the Yost theater tonight includes William Collier, Jr., Vera Lewis, Lionel Belmore and Mario Carillo. Clarence Badger directed.

The story is one of a Duke, played by Jack Holt, who becomes disillusioned with all women of his own rank and falls in love with a little peasant girl, whom he sends to Paris to school, intent on making her his Duchess.

"THE MAN IN BLUE" AT WALKER'S TONIGHT

When Universal Pictures corporation made "Jack O' Clubs," starring Herbert Rawlinson, something entirely new in picture stories was offered the public—a story with a policeman hero was no whit less a policeman than thousands of men who pound a beat as their duty. Also, the picture set a new mark for screen fights so far as realism and spectacular entertainment is concerned.

Now Rawlinson is here in another police story, and another gang fight, "The Man in Blue," in which Rawlinson and Madge Bellamy are co-starred and which is being shown in the Walker theater. It is the story of love and hazard in the Italian quarter of a big city in the United States. Rawlinson, walking a beat in the quarter, and a little Italian flower girl, played by Miss Bellamy, fall in love with each other, but immediately encounter the difficulties created by her uncle's opposition, and the desire of the big, unscrupulous boss of the district to have the girl for his own wife.

Comes the time when the policeman girls himself to brave the dangers of an underworld hangout to save the girl from a fate she dreads worse than death, and it is in this scene that the big, dramatic ending of the story is enacted.

EXPERTS WILL HOLD CLASSES IN GOVERNMENT

NEW YORK, June 30.—Economic experts of Europe, Asia and South America will conduct special courses on the economic organization of foreign countries in the summer session of Columbia university, beginning July 6. The group will be headed by Prof. W. E. Weld, former professor of economics in Ewing Christian college, Allahabad, India.

One week of lectures and discussions will be devoted to each country, it was announced today by Prof. John J. Coas, director of the summer session.

England will be taken up during the week of July 6 by C. Ryle Fay, former fellow and tutor, Christ college, Cambridge. Professor Weld will discuss India during the session to be held from July 13 to July 17.

Burgess Wooley, director of the Argentine-American Chamber of Commerce, will lecture on Argentine beginning July 20, followed, on July 27, by Tadao Wikawa, assistant financial commissioner of the Japanese government to the United States, who will discuss Japan.

Germany will be studied under Prof. Bruno F. A. Dietrich, of the Technische Hochschule, Breslau, Germany, on August 3. Discussions of the final week will be given over to principles of comparative economics.

"These courses," said Professor Coas, "are a comparative study of the populations, the natural resources, the forms of agricultural, industrial and social organizations, the labor situations, the domestic and foreign trade, and the standard of living in England, India, Argentina, Germany and Japan."

"This work will be of particular interest to those citizens who realize that the international relations of a democracy will not be satisfactory unless the leaders of public opinion are informed as to the social and economic conditions obtaining in foreign countries."

"It is designed also for those who are directly engaged in business transactions with foreign countries, and for students of economics who are interested in regional comparison as well as temporal comparison."

"Inter-regional comparison at any one time has not developed so rapidly as comparison in one place at different times. Both forms of comparison are important and must be used."

FULL EXONERATION IN SHEPHERD CASE

CHICAGO, July 1.—William Darling Shepherd today was fully exonerated of charges of murder.

The county grand jury heard two witnesses testify concerning the death and post-mortem examination of Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock, mother of Shepherd's millionaire ward, Billy, who voted "no bills." The action means that Shepherd is entirely absolved of any blame in connection with Mrs. McClintock's death 16 years ago.

Shepherd was acquitted by a jury last Friday of charges that he had murdered Billy McClintock but it was up to the grand jury to wipe out the accusations, involving the death of Billy's mother.

Appearance Bond Filed By Doheny

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—Edward L. Doheny sr., millionaire oil magnate of California, has posted $9000 surety bond with U. S. Commissioner Raymond L. Raymond to insure his presence in Washington to answer to criminal indictment on file against him there.

The bond was given after U. S. Attorney S. W. McNabb had received a certified copy of the indictment and issued a formal complaint against Doheny.

The indictment charges alleged conspiracy in connection with the leasing of the Elk Hills Naval Oil reserves. The leases were nullified by Federal Judge Paul J. McCormick several days after indictments were returned against Doheny and former Secretary of Interior Albert E. Fall.

NEWSPAPER HOME SURVIVES TREMORS

SANTA BARBARA, July 1.—Standing alone and practically undamaged in the midst of a sweep of quake-wrecked buildings, is the Santa Barbara News plant.

This structure, of old Spanish design, was built two years ago by George Washington Smith, famous architect of old Spain, and was designed to be quake proof. The Santa Barbara disaster proved a tribute to the builder. When a new Santa Barbara is erected on the site of the present ruins, it is probable that most of the structures will be modeled after the News plant.

Employees said the building stood like a giant through the first serious tremors and those which followed. Heavy linotype machines were shaken out of line, but the building, solid with iron and concrete, withstood one of the most severe tests ever given to architecture.

Chamber Workers To Meet July 26 At Newport Beach

NEWPORT BEACH, July 1.—Chamber of commerce secretaries from all over the Southland will meet here Saturday, July 25, for the monthly meeting of the Southern California Secretarial Association, it was learned today.

At an undetermined date, the secretaries of the Orange county chambers of commerce are to meet to arrange for entertaining the members of the association.

The Newport meeting will be held at the yacht club. A number of entertaining features are planned, including a boat ride around the Orange county harbor.

At the last meeting of the secretaries at Venice, the matter of holding quarterly sessions of two-day duration was rejected in favor of the present plan of monthly gatherings. A change in the date of the meetings from Saturday to Wednesday, however, is being considered.

The secretaries were informed as to the provisions of Assembly Bill 688, simplifying condemnation proceedings of cities and counties. Under this measure, the secretaries were told, the city or county administration could expedite street openings, paving and park projects as the filing of condemnation suits are to be considered as virtually conclusive to condemnation.

The bill, which passed both houses of the state legislature and has been approved by Governor Richardson, becomes effective July 25.

That's Quick Quaker, the "no hot kitchen" solution of the summer breakfast problem

HERE is the right summer breakfast... Oats and milk. Doctors urge it. Children do well on it. Active folks need it.

Yet you cook it in 3 to 5 minutes.

That means no frying and stewing on hot mornings.

It means meeting hot days with a smile.

Get Quick Quaker. You will be delighted.

Same rich Quaker flavor. Cooks faster, that's the only difference.

that any person qualified may attend high school in the district in which he resides under such regulations as the high school boards may prescribe.

"Section 52, Subdivision 4, provides that the residence of the child during his life and, after his death, the residence of the mother while she remains the mother, is the residence of the unmarried minor child.

"Considering these sections together, it would seem that the legislature intended and made it possible for pupils to attend the high schools in the districts in which they reside.

Provides Condition

"And the other portion of Section 1751 provides the conditions under which a pupil may attend a high school in a district other than that in which he resides, 'only upon such terms as may be agreed upon by the high school boards of the two districts.'

"Said section also provides that a pupil may attend a high school in a district in which he does not reside should the boards of the two districts not agree 'on such terms as the county superintendent and the board of education of the district in which he resides and the district in which he desires to attend have failed to agree upon terms. Ten it would be necessary for you to make whatever investigation you deemed proper in the premises and render your decision thereon.

Discretionary Matter

"It seems that it is a discretionary matter with you and one that should be exercised by you, not in an arbitrary manner, but rather in the best interests of the district involved, and since this is a discretionary matter, once your discretion is exercised, the court will not by injunction or mandamus interfere with nor set aside your decision, unless it could be shown that it was exercised in an arbitrary or fraudulent manner.

"In other words, when such matter comes before you for decision, the proper places upon you, not the court, the duty of determining it, and the law leaves with you the duty of determining it properly and justly to all districts and parties concerned."

baby. The others are Francis Brunner, a high school student; Harry Dean, in the junior high school, and Louis Hamilton Jr., in the fourth grade.

Another distinctive feature of the Hill family is that the father and four of his sons are Masons. "Daddy" Hill has been an Odd Fellow for the last 39 years, and for more than half a century has been a member of the Baptist church.

While there is no mention of the family in the "Who's Who," the elder Hill is frequently putting the question: "What's Who?" to himself. And there is a reason.

Family Mixup

To quote his own words:

"My son and I married sister. My son and I are brothers-in-law. My wife is the mother of her sister. We both have children. Who are they? They are cousins. My children are uncles to my son's children and I am an uncle and grandfather. My wife is aunt and grandmother to the children and sister-in-law to her sister." Who's Who. And who am I?"

Summing up his experiences in married life, Hill willingly gives the credit for what success he has achieved to his two wives.

ROTARY DELEGATES LAKE MEETING

striking analysis of why Rotary has taken the hold that it has on men on the world. The Englishman, leader, dealing with fundamentals, pointed out that the reason why Rotary had filled the need was that it holds as a foundation principle that any means earning an honest living is honorable. That, he sounds like a simple idea, but the public mind, especially so in our countries of the world. There are some businesses or professions that have been held by the public to be more honorable than others. Take the profession of the doctor, for instance. By tradition, for generations, the doctor has been expected to stand for service above self, ready to answer the call of duty, for duty's sake and not the compensation involved. Rotary is endeavoring to instill this to every craft this same idea of service above self so that the of honorableness is attached to any honorable way of earning a living."

Singer on Program.

C. A. Gustin, the local musician, was present yesterday home from a concert tour. He went with him as his guest, Louis C. rich, of Emporia, Kas., a known concert singer, who sang two solos to the intense appreciation of the club. J. C. H. presided at yesterday's meeting.

Col. Ed Fletcher, San Diego developer, Rotarian, visited the club and was called on for a talk. He invited the club to camp" at Cuyamaca Lake Cuyamaca county.

Next Tuesday Santa Ana Rotarians to hear an address by C. Thorpe, manager of the California Walnut Growers' association cooperative marketing. Fred land, walnut grower, Barney Ford, citrus packing house manager, W. C. Jerome, bean grower, and D. Brown, lemon grower, are committee in charge.

Woodmen to Have Annual Picnic at Beach On July 4

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 1.—City trustees, chamber of commerce officials, and other civic bodies here were today preparing for gala days, July 4 and 5. Woodmen of the World from over Orange county will be in this city for their annual week end picnic. Members of the Woodmen group have arranged an elaborate program of sports, speakers, music, special entertainment, including vaudeville acts and other attractions. An Orange county bathing girls revue, one of the largest fire-works displays on the coast and a special attraction, a men's bathing beauty parade, will be seen here Saturday. The Huntington Beach chamber of commerce is co-operating with the Woodmen of the World to make the event the most successful in the history of the organization. It is expected that the largest crowd in the history of Huntington Beach will be present for the day. A special band concert will be played July 4 by the Huntington Beach municipal band.

FEW GRANTED RESPECT GIVEN TO PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The presidency of the United States, based though it is on every principle of democracy, is surrounded by official deference and formal honors such as are granted to few crowned heads. As a man the person who is president is only a citizen but as the president of the United States he is the figure who represents the United States and therefore in army, navy and state department regulations no honor is too great for him. Since the days of Washington new traditions and precedents have been gathered about the president until now if all the honors to which Mr. Coolidge is entitled were invoked he would spend more time in official ceremonial than in transacting government business. Hence presidents have had to direct members of their staffs to eliminate fuss except on very official occasions.

Twenty-one Guns. When the president passes or arrives at any military or naval establishment he is entitled to a salute of 21 guns, to have the command paraded at attention, to be saluted by bugles and to have the national anthem played. Were this ceremony invariably adhered to around Washington the army, the navy and the president would be almost perpetually engaged in the process. Therefore it is reserved for formal occasions, though every Saturday when the president embarks on the Mayflower he gets the national anthem and the 21 guns.

When the president attends formal social events he is preceded by buglers who sound his salute and by the national colors and the president's flag, carried by a color guard. The detachment stands at attention during the president's presence.

In the social procedure of the White House the president is always first. He passes through the doorway first, the one gentleman in the land who precedes a lady. He is served first at meals. He may sit when women present and stand. Naturally most presidents dispense with many of these formalities on most occasions. But the traditional supreme respect due the president of the United States is preserved on official occasions.

Closely Guarded. Respect for the presidency is not confined to official honors prescribed by tradition and regulation. He is surrounded by every comfort, protection and deference. Secret service men guard him at all times. Doctors examine him daily to keep the most minute watch on his health. Carefully selected foods are served with every finesse to tempt his appetite. In his office a skilled staff ward off all vexatious minor administrative matters. Every thing is done to protect his health and spirits so that unhampered he may devote his energies to the important duties of his great office.

Former Pastor At Westminster Occupies Pulpit

WESTMINSTER, July 1.—The Rev. W. A. Wardle of Los Angeles, who was pastor of the Presbyterian church here for about 13 years, was heard at the church again Sunday at both the morning and evening services. He was warmly welcomed by a number of his friends here, and during the day was a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Larimer. Miss Amy Gilbert, who lives with the Wardles, is now enjoying the best of health. He also told of the accident, resulting in the death of the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hillis of Los Angeles. The boy was crossing the street in Los Angeles Friday and got directly in the way of an ice truck and was instantly killed. Mr. Hillis filled the Presbyterian pulpit here for many Sundays during last summer after Rev. Mr. Wardle resigned and before the present pastor took up the work.

Two L. A. Boys Use Sand for Bed But Sleep Is Halted

NEWPORT BEACH, July 1.—Two runaway boys from Los Angeles were found here Tuesday night curled up in a sand pit they had dug under the pier. They gave their names as Abraham Epstein, 15, of 2406 Palmyro avenue and Victor Riskin, 15, of 2461 Palmyro avenue. City Marshal J. A. Porter and Deputy Marshal J. S. Welch discovered the youths. According to information obtained by the police, the boys were on their way to Laguna Beach. After being given lodging for the night, they agreed to return home without completing their trip.

Landing Pier Bids Are Asked By Beach Board

NEWPORT BEACH, July 1.—Bids were called for the construction of a landing platform on the Balboa pier, at the special meeting of the city board of trustees here last night.

A similar platform is already erected at the Newport Beach pier for transporting passengers to the fishing barges. It is also being used at small charge to take people to other boats.

The contract of construction is to be awarded next Monday night to the concern that offers the greatest percentage of receipts to the city.

'It's Mine,' No, It's Mine; Then Both Disclaim It

SAN RAFAEL, Calif., July 1.—"It's mine!" shouted Joseph McArdle. "No, it's mine," asserted Milton Kinney, with equal force. So Constable E. D. Horstetter took them and a disputed black bag into court. The bag was opened. It contained two demijohns of whiskey. "It's yours," McArdle said. "No, it's yours," contradicted Kinney. But it turned out to be McArdle's, and he lost the whiskey and gain a suspended sentence.

How Soldier Dispersed Attacks

"For two years my stomach trouble was very bad, my doctor had to inject morphine on several occasions when I was stricken with these attacks. Since taking 4 bottles of May's Wonderful Remedy I have been entirely well and am serving in the artillery, having been pronounced in perfect health by government physicians." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allows the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.—Adv.

BIGGEST FOURTH OF JULY JUBILEE

AVALON, Calif., June 30.—The biggest Fourth of July Jubilee in the history of Catalina Island is scheduled to be celebrated with something doing every minute during a two-day carnival in which Avalon business men, officials of the Catalina Island Yacht club, the Tuna club and the Santa Catalina Island company will join hands to insure its success. Among the many big features will be a chorus of fifty voices, the Catalina Island Yacht club regatta, a grand fireworks display on the bay, and the famed Catalina Marine band. Three will be a special trans-channel steamer schedule maintained all day Saturday and Sunday to comfortably accommodate the big crowds anticipated at Catalina.

Building Mark In Fullerton Better

FULLERTON, July 1.—Grover L. Walters, city building inspector, announced today that building in this city was slightly better this month than last, with a total of $23,894 in permits being issued. Last year in June, the permits totaled $37,400. A stubborn person is like a pin without a head; hard to move in either direction.

If you have climbed nearly to your ideal, that is proof that it is full time to seek a higher ideal.

Anaheim Police Nab Two Men On Liquor Charges

ANAHEIM, July 1.—Dickson Fairbanks, 20, of Los Angeles, started a 100-day vacation in Anaheim today, as a guest at the city jail, while A. W. Holmes, 27, of Hollywood, left $100 in the city coffers, thereby avoiding the forced stay in this city. Both were arrested here on liquor charges by Motorcycle Officer Sawyer, who declared their cars were zig-zagging down South Los Angeles street. A pint of liquor was in the possession of each, the arresting officer claimed. Fairbanks was unable to raise $100 for a fine, so was forced to start serving sentence.

Newport Building Permit Mark Soars

NEWPORT BEACH, July 1.—Building permits for the month of June amounted to a total of $33,240 according to figures compiled by J. A. Porter, license collector. This total surpasses the amount for June of last year by nearly $4,300. The figures for June of 1924 were $28,950. Though business activity during the last months has shown marked increases over last year, the complete total for the half year period from January to July falls slightly below that for the same period last year. Permits issued this year amount to $278,625 as against $281,015 for 1924.

LINER ARRIVES WITH SAD TALE OF SEA CRASH

NEW YORK, July 1.—Nine Gloucester fishermen, snatched from the waters off Banquereau bank, after the British liner Tuscania had run down their little craft, Rex, in the fog of Sunday morning, came safely into port today aboard the Tuscania.

With them came, too, the body of their skipper, Thomas Downey, of Lowell, Mass., picked up by the Tuscania in a long search for its victims.

Captain David W. Bone, of the Tuscania, was heartbroken at the crash which had taken the lives of 14 other seafarers who were playing their perilous calling off the banks and about ready to set sail back to the New England port with a heavy catch.

Tears stood in his eyes as he told of the fatal crash—a collision for which the fishermen held him blameless. Thomas J. Flannigan, one of the Gloucester men, pronounced him a "real skipper," adding that he did "everything for the lads that could be done."

Bone had slowed down, as a precaution for light rain, mist and patches of fog made it inadvisable to keep up scheduled speed.

Out of the mark dead ahead he suddenly heard another horn. He could not see the craft but his seaman's ear told him that it was a fisherman's ship.

He gave the order to reverse and ported the helm. The great liner crumpled with the reverse but before it was effective the ship had crashed through the fishing schooner and thrown its men into the waters of the bank.

Within three minutes the Britisher had come to a stop and within ten minutes one lifeboat was searching for survivors, while within twenty minutes a second had joined.

Nine of the men were saved and the body of Downey recovered.

Two Killed When Train Hits Auto

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., July 1.—Two were killed and two probably fatally injured near Grants, N. M., last night, when their automobile was struck and cut in two by an eastbound Santa Fe passenger-train. Mrs. Otto Elgert, Los Angeles, and her daughter were killed, while her husband and son are not expected to live.

BERLIN, July 1.—Two persons are reported dead and 15 injured in an explosion in the Schering chemical works, which blew off the roof of the factory and shattered windows in passing trains.

Out of 225 brakes tested in Kansas City recently in one day, 1415 were found inefficient.

Two Homers Show Bambino In Form

BOSTON, July 1.—Babe Ruth, who is struggling to return to his old baseball form, thrilled fans watching the New York-Boston game here this afternoon, when he hit a home run. The homer came in the first half of the third inning. Fuhr was pitching for Boston. With Ross on the mound in the seventh, the Babe duplicated his feat. The Yanks were leading 8 to 5 at the time.

THINK CANADA WILL LOOK FOR LATIN TRADE

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The extent to which Canada should be a participant in the councils of the American states is a topic much discussed in Latin American circles here. This discussion began with the publication of the draft project for a Pan-American court of justice. It has been stimulated also by the addresses of Sir Robert Falconer at Edinburgh university, in which he has revealed the tendencies of Canadian international interest.

Canada now occupies a strong commercial and financial position in many republics of Latin America. Her banking connections are very strong. She has pursued an active policy in extending her trade throughout Latin America, and especially in the Caribbean and northern republics of South America. Naturally there is interest among Latin American diplomats as to whether an extension of Canadian political influence is practicable and desirable.

The present discussion here has no official status whatever and is of significance merely as it represents tendencies of thought. When the Pan-American union was organized its founders undoubtedly contemplated the inclusion of Canada. The coat-of-arms of Canada is to be seen in the courtyard of the union building and is frequently commented by visitors. Why, it is often asked, should not the Pan-American movement be extended to the entire continent, Canada inclusive?

There are, of course, many and conflicting views regarding Canadian participation in the Pan-American movement. These views doubtless will be aired at the conference of jurists at Rio de Janeiro next year, when the Pan-American court is under discussion.

The fact that Great Britain might wield political power in this hemisphere through Canadian agency would of course be a theoretical objection. No official pronouncement on this question has been made here.

Whether or not Great Britain would approve the participation of Canada in a Pan-American court of justice or in the Pan-American movement generally, also is problematical. Britain might look upon the matter favorably, because of the increase prestige and power which it would give a Dominion in hemispherical affairs, as this might prove politically advantageous indirectly to Britain. On the other hand, the mother country might feel that Canadian affiliation with the American republics would tend to wear her sympathy and interest in a new direction and away from the empire.

So far as known Canada never has responded favorably to previous efforts to interest her in Pan-American activities. It is known here that Canadian attendance at the last Pan-American conference at Santiago would have been welcomed by Chile, but Canada showed little interest in tentative steps toward an invitation. This at the time was attributed in part to the influence of Great Britain.

SAYS SECRECY VEILED WORK ON OIL LEASE

NEW YORK, July 1.—An assertion that the Washington Limitations of Arms conference in 1921 was called to prevent threatening hostilities on the Pacific, which had badly frightened naval officers, was made today in an interview with E. L. Doheny, wealthy oil man, published in and copyrighted by the New York Times.

The interview was presented as Doheny's story of the events leading up to the leasing to him of the Elk Hills, Calif., naval oil reserve. The leasing resulted in a sensational investigation, Doheny's incident with former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, for alleged criminal conspiracy and litigation under which the lease had been called invalid.

Surrounded With Secrecy
Doheny was quoted by the Times as saying the work done under the lease was surrounded with secrecy to prevent foreign delegations to the conference learning that, even at the moment, the United States was engaged in warlike preparations.

The Times states that on advice of counsel, Doheny refrained from discussing the $100,000 loan to Fall, which figured so prominently in the oil investigations, or the letter signed by Fall, saying he received money from E. B. McLean, of Washington. The Times said, however, it learned on good authority that Doheny understands the letter was signed under pressure from a Republican politician.

Set Four Points
Doheny is quoted as setting forth five main points, which led to his leasing of the reserve and which have bearing on subsequent happenings. These points are:
That Adm. John K. Robison, chief of the naval engineering bureau, convinced him that "a great war in the Pacific threatened in 1921."

That the plans for leasing the naval oil reserves originated "in the brains of high officers of the navy, who, as a result of confidential reports submitted by Adm. Albert Gleaves, commanding in 1921 the American naval forces in Asiatic waters, were convinced that a great war in the Pacific threatened."

Denby Suggested Transfer
That Secretary of Navy Denby and not Secretary of the Interior Fall suggested the transfer of the territory of the naval reserves from the navy to the interior department and that the transfer was discussed at a full cabinet meeting, at which Calvin Coolidge, then vice president, was among those in attendance.

That Doheny himself acted only after Admiral Robison told him that an invasion of the Pacific coast by the United States was probable unless oil storage facilities at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, were constructed without delay.

That the leases and the carrying out of the program covered by the leases was surrounded in great secrecy because the arms limitations conference was in progress in Washington and it was vital that the powers represented there should not learn that while the United States was working for peace it was preparing for war.

That "certain important telegrams," which would "go a long way toward clearing up the situation," are missing from the files of the interior department.

WOMAN TELLS OF EXPERIENCE IN EARTHQUAKE

SANTA BARBARA, July 1.—Mrs. Elizabeth Miller senses earthquakes with an uncanny accuracy. She went through the San Francisco disaster in 1906, has thrilled to scores of lesser jolts since, and she feels earthquakes that seismographs never recorded.

Mrs. Miller's husband is a fireman, and he helped fight the blazes in the city which reduced Santa Barbara to ashes 19 years ago. Miller is on daily fire duty at Santa Barbara at present, and Mrs. Miller is making sandwiches and coffee for the relief workers.

When this veteran quake senser heard the first rumble of motion early Monday morning, she was on her feet in two seconds. "That's another San Francisco earthquake," I told my husband and 18-year-old daughter," she said.

Flee Crashing Home
"In 15 seconds, we had fled to the streets just in time to see our home cave in behind us. I went through the entire quake in San Francisco and have felt some pretty tough jolts since, but it is my belief the shock here was the worst of the two," she continued.

"It was the heroic act of firemen in turning off the gas mains which probably saved Santa Barbara from a more complete disaster than that which wrecked San Francisco."

"It was the explosion of gas mains in San Francisco which caused the first and the most damage after the first big quake."

Mrs. Miller said she felt a dozen lesser earth tremors yesterday morning than the three distinct quakes felt generally by other residents.

"I can feel the earth tremble under my feet," she said.

Farm News From Everywhere

PLAN TO STUDY IRRIGATION AT FIELD SESSIONS

A traveling field meeting, under auspices of the farm bureau and the agricultural extension service, will be held on July 7, when all growers who are interested in overhead or spray irrigation are invited to visit and study at first hand systems already installed. Different types of installations, both moveable and permanent, will be observed. Results obtained to date will be explained. At each orchard, a demonstration will be given showing the heads in operation.

The growers will meet at the corner of Foothill boulevard and Double drive, in Arcadia, at 9:30 a. m. From there they will go to the ranches of C. J. Pegler and Charles Brooks in Sierra Madre; leaving there about 10:30 a. m., a visit will be made at the ranch of B. W. Chambers, of La Canada, at 11 a. m. Lunch will be obtained in Pasadena, after which the ranch of P. H. Macpherson, of Sunny Slope, will be visited, arriving there at 1:30 p. m.

The orchards which are to be visited have been irrigated by means of the overhead method for from three to five years. Any grower contemplating the installation of this method should be interested in going on this trip, it is declared.

BARLEY MEN FACE MARKET PROBLEMS

SACRAMENTO, July 1.—Barley farmers on the Pacific coast, and particularly in California, are facing a marketing problem this year, according to G. A. Collins, marketing specialist of the U. S. department of agriculture who, in cooperation with G. H. Hecke, director of the state department of agriculture, is arranging to extend the Grain Market News service to the farmers of California.

California produces, in normal years, a superior quality of malting barley, which is in demand in European markets, particularly those of Great Britain, and brings a premium of from 5 cents to 35 cents a bushel over barley from other countries and from other sections of the United States.

This demand for California barley in the European markets and the premiums paid, however, depend upon the amount of barley available in other countries and the relative quality of the California grain. The world's production of barley, excluding Russia and China, is still below the pre-war production, which for the period 1909-1913 averaged 1,345,000,000 bushels. The world's crop last year outside of Russia and China, totaled 1,215,000,000 bushels, in 1923, 1,329,000,000 bushels and in 1922, 1,296,000,000 bushels. Reports covering about 30 per cent of the acreage reported last year indicate a reduction of about three per cent in acreage this year, but this may easily be offset by heavier yields.

Low yields in Europe and Northern Africa were largely responsible for the smaller crops in those countries last year, which totaled 652,000,000 bushels, compared with 765,000,000 bushels in 1923. It was also this decreased production which caused the active demand for American barley and together with the short crop on the Pacific coast, advanced the price of California malting barley to a high level.

In normal years, California furnishes about 75 per cent of the United States exports of barley, but California exports last year were only about 50 per cent of the United States total. Great Britain, Germany and France are the principal malting countries, but the average consumption of malting barley in 1923 and 1924 was only about two-thirds of the average for the three pre war years.

$43,000 GIVEN

LEMON GROWERS

YORBA LINDA, July 1.—With a total of $43,000 in lemon money distributed to Yorba Linda citrus association members during the last two weeks, and other payments coming, not to mention orange money, ranchers are beginning to feel the results of higher market prices for fruit.

The funds distributed so far advance payments on fruit picked and it will be some weeks before the Valencia crop funds are ready.

NONE LIKE IT

Can California grow oranges? If you don't think so, just take a look at the one pictured above. It was grown on the San Joaquin Fruit company's ranch and weighs a half pound.

FREAK ORANGE IS FOUND ON FRUIT RANCH

An orange with a protruding finger has been discovered on the San Joaquin Fruit company's ranch. Examined by experts, it was pronounced perfect in every way except in appearance.

The orange is a Valencia and weighs a half pound. Citrus specialists say that the fruit is the first of its kind that they have ever seen. Among those who have seen the Valencia and marveled at its unique size are C. V. Newman, manager of the ranch; A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner; Charles C. Collins, deputy commissioner; and Harold E. Wahlberg, farm advisor.

The freak orange probably will be shipped east and placed on exhibition.

REVISE PAYMENTS TO APRICOT MEN

SAN JOSE, July 1.—The executive committee of the California Prune and Apricot Growers association, at its meeting in San Jose June 25, announced a revised schedule of payments to be made to members as an advance on the delivery of 1925 crop of dried apricots. The new schedule is as follows:

Standards and No. 1 slabs, five cents; choice, six cents; extra choice, seven cents; fancy, eight cents; extra fancy 10 cents; fancy moorpark, 10 cents; extra fancy moorpark, 12 cents.

These prices reflect a much brighter outlook for the dried apricot men, inasmuch as they are considerably higher than the advance paid by the association last season. This first payment, made when the fruit is delivered, will be followed by other payments as the fruit is sold and the money becomes available.

In comparison with the advance made to members on the 1924 crop of dried apricots, the 1925 crop advance is three cents higher on standards and No. 1 slabs, one cent high on choice, one cent higher on extra choice, two cents higher on fancy, four cents higher on extra fancy and fancy moorpark and six cents higher on extra fancy moorpark.

Vineyardists Of State Are Warned Of Mildew Danger

SACRAMENTO, July 1.—Reports are now coming in at the office of the state department of agriculture on the occurrence of powdery mildew in vineyards. This disease, according to R. L. Nougaret, viticultural expert, who has been making a survey of the state, varies not to any one locality of the state, but was found quite widely distributed.

Mindful of the seriousness of this disease in 1923, Director G. H. Hecke is calling the attention of vineyardists to the necessity of combating mildew.

INTERESTING INFORMATION ON SCALE CONTROL GIVEN BY HORTICULTURAL CHIEF

By A. A. BROCK
County Horticultural Commissioner

The problem of controlling scale insects that attack citrus trees in Orange county is a big one and is increasing yearly. There are a great many that attack these trees, but only a few are of commercial economic importance and they can almost be counted on one hand.

Naming them in the order of their importance, I would say first, the black scale, because of the wide distribution and the imperative need of annual fumigation for its control. Red scale is our next most important insect pest of citrus in this county. This is due largely to the variety of this species which attack our lemons along the foothills and is so hard to control. It is to be found also on a very large acreage and is a serious pest of oranges in some sections. Purple scale has a wide distribution in this county and causes some very severe injury where it is not properly controlled. Citrophilus mealybug is the next scale insect of economic importance. I would then add citrus mealybug, Baker's mealybug, soft brown scale and Glover's scale.

Cost of Control
The actual burden of scale control to the citrus grower can best be realized when we consider the amounts expended annually for this purpose. There are two general methods employed, fumigation and spraying. In 1922-23, the growers of this county expended $555,289.22 for fumigation and treated 1,222,623 trees. In 1923-24, they expended $891,139.92 and treated 2,525,000 trees. In 1924-25, they expended $716,531.24 and treated 2,13,732 trees. In 1922-23, $24,890.95 was expended for spraying and 103,941 trees were treated. In 1923-24, $41,310.25 was expended and 185,041 trees treated. In 1924-25, $63,840.75 was expended and 275,363 trees were treated.

In addition to this, the biological control work, carried on in this county for the control of mealybug, has cost about $10,000 annually, making an average total cost annual for scale control of $775,987.78.

For every corner, you hear talk about high taxes, but the citrus grower's burden for scale control is almost as great as his annual tax bill, considering taxes on both land and trees.

Insect Knowledge Needed
While the science of treating for scale insects has not been, in every respect, perfected, there are certain basic principles which we can follow and rely upon. However, each year we find a number of mistakes being made in the regular operations and if we are to improve in our methods, we must profit by our mistakes and I will attempt at this time to point out some of the mistakes which are responsible for poor results. First of all, you should possess a definite knowledge of the particular scale insects found in your orchard and they should be treated at a time when good results can be expected; in fact, most of our failures are due to treating at the wrong time. By this, I mean that the scale are treated when they are too large or when they are in the egg stage and in the case of red scale, at a time when experience has proven only poor results can be expected. So we must watch the development of the scale and be ready to fumigate when they are most vulnerable.

Another serious mistake is that of resorting to some new and untried method each year with the hope of finding a panacea. Another mistake is that of using too light a dosage in trying to control some of our scale pests which are very hard to kill.

Different Species
Every grower is familiar with black scale. This insect is to be found in every citrus-growing section of our county. It is very hard to control in some sections due to what is commonly known as an uneven hatch. This, we find in some districts and pretty generally on young trees throughout the county. In order to control insects of this kind, we find that most of the scale of a vulnerable size in the early fall and this allows for a treatment when the major part of the young have just emerged, so an early fumigation on an uneven hatch of black scale will give, under ordinary circumstances, the best results. We have a very even hatch in some of the older orchards and in some sections this holds true in the younger orchards and while these scale, though hatched early, remain small throughout the season, better results can be expected from an early fumigation.

Experience has proven that when we have cold winters with this very small black scale, the results obtained from late treatments are generally poor but if they are fumigated directly after the young emerge and when the weather is warm and they are functioning freely and developing at the maximum, we can kill a larger percentage of these very small scale than if we wait until they have reached that stage of development in which they pass the winter. We know that the development and movement of all insect life is retarded by low temperatures and we are assuming that scale insects are in a semi-hibernating condition during the cold weather. This is the only way we have to account for being unable to kill this very minute black scale by late fumigation.

Observations made in 1922 proved that late fumigation on very small black scale gave consistently poor results. In 1924, counts made after fumigation showed that in some badly infested orchards, we obtained only about a 58 per cent kill in some of the groves. A number of orchards were fumigated with about a 50 per cent kill. We were dealing with very small scale and the hatch was as even as could be found in any of the groves of the county.

Red Scale
Our growers and fumigators have come to realize that the best and surest way to obtain satisfactory results against this pest is to treat during winter months. The young of this insect are born alive and experience has taught us that during the winter, when the trees are more or less dormant and at a time when there are but few emerging and moving, we can get the maximum dosage and the optimum results can be obtained.

There are from three to four generations a year of red scale, depending upon climatic conditions, their development being retarded for a considerable time if we have cold winters. As there are no eggs deposited, it is necessary to destroy the adults because the young are emerging from day to day and the dosage must be sufficient to destroy all stages of this insect to obtain commercial results.

Purple Scale
The infestations of purple scale are confined generally to a few trees here and there in the orchard. It may be pretty generally distributed throughout the grove, but you are sure to find some trees with a few branches and some fruit infested. Early fumigation is imperative in controlling this pest and we try to catch a generation just after the young emerge and then use as heavy a dosage as possible. The time of fumigation varies every year, depending on the season because there are between three and four generations a year and sometimes we find them in ideal shape by the middle of August; other times not until the middle of September, but when young are emerging, even though there are still a good many eggs with a heavy dosage as we are destroyed by an early treatment. Poor results come largely from a late fumigation and at a time when most all of the scale are in the egg stage. Occasionally, we find during warm winters that eggs are hatching and the young are emerging and, under these conditions, we get some very fine kills with winter fumigation, but generally speaking, our poor results come largely from the late treatment.

Methods of Control
There are two general methods of controlling scale insects, fumigation and spraying. In this county, the major part of the acreage is fumigated. This is the most successful way of treating these insects if used at a time when they are in a vulnerable condition. Most of our fumigators have co-operated in every way possible and have lived up religiously to the requirements issued by the county horticultural commissioner's office. With the result that we have had but little injury from fumigation. I believe the injury has been avoided by stopping all operations in October. This is the month that we expect damage as a result of fumigation. Then too, the fumigators are not trying to continue working under unfavorable weather conditions like hot weather, cold weather, and nights and the dosage, of course, has been increased as the season advanced, therefore, little injury has resulted from overdosage. Little or no daylight fumigation has been practiced, so we have escaped with very little injury from this treatment. The only complaint that can be registered against this method from last year's work is poor results obtained in the way of scale kills from the late treatment on black scale. The early fumigation on purple scale was entirely satisfactory and the late fumigation on red scale was a little better than what we have obtained before. The results on all various scale pests have run all the way from 50 per cent, depending on the time of fumigation, up to 99 per cent plus.

Recommendations
It would appear as a result of inspections of the work carried on in this county and from the experience of those qualified to speak upon the subject, that the following recommendations can be made, generally speaking, for the county, without fear of contradiction: First, fumigate for black scale just as soon as all of the eggs have hatched. In the case of an uneven hatch, if the young are emerging, the fumigation should be started, even if there are a few eggs present.

With the purple scale, the infestation should be watched and when the limbs are covered with young and they are developing their armor and have the appearance of mildew along on the branches or the fruit and foliage, they should be fumigated. Late winter fumigation should be practiced for red scale. In every case, the maximum dosage should be used, starting in the early fall on black scale with 88 per cent and raising this to 100 per cent and in the winter to 110 per cent on oranges and with lemons to 122 per cent. There should be a sufficient number of tents in the field to cover the infested orchards at a time when results can be expected. You may say that this will add to the growers' cost. It may add a few cents per tree for fumigation, but it may be much cheaper in the long run to fumigate and obtain results than to kill only a 60, 75 or 80 per cent. The final analysis will show that the grower has profited materially by paying for results rather than for fumigation only.

Sprays should be resorted to only in cases where there is a scattering infestation on young trees or in districts where fumigation has failed to give a satisfactory commercial kill and then only with a product that has been out over a period of years in the district where it is to be applied, so that the grower will have some knowledge of the results that can

STRICT PLANT INSPECTION IS ASKED OF U. S.

Stringent measures to prevent the introduction or spread of injurious insects and plant diseases in the western states were advocated in resolutions passed by the Western Plant Quarantine board at the seventh annual convention held in Boise, Idaho, June 11-13. Resolutions of the board were given very careful consideration by federal and state authorities charged with quarantine law enforcement and pest control. Among the many important resolutions passed was the following: "Be it resolved that the federal horticultural board strengthen its inspection force and provide for full inspection at all ports of entry in which the support of the states is pledged."

William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, is commended in another resolution for his support of quarantine measures.

For the protection of fruit culture in the western states against the Oriental peach moth, a resolution was passed that all states and provinces comprising the membership of the quarantine board promulgate and enforce quarantines against all states and districts known to be infested with Oriental peach moth and against all states not known to be now infested but which permit importations of hosts or carriers of this pest from infested states, and that a committee be appointed by the chairman of the board to draw up a satisfactory quarantine for submission to and adoption by the western states.

It was further resolved that the state plant quarantine officers or other state authorities, engaged in plant quarantine should be called together annually by the secretary of agriculture at his discretion and propose suitable methods of protecting the agricultural industry from injurious insect pests and plant diseases and adopt uniform regulations governing movement of same, and at his discretion call national or sectional meetings of such officers upon the discovery of new serious outbreaks of such pests and diseases, for the purpose of adopting suitable emergency regulations. Also that such state officers, at the discretion of the secretary, be made collaborating officers of the federal horticultural board and that the expenses incurred by state officers at such meetings be paid by the U. S. department of agriculture from any appropriation provided for this purpose by congress.

New Ford economy —now made possible by this Eastern economy oil for Fords

MANY Ford owners complain of the cost of operating their cars. Frequent repairs, low gasoline and oil mileage, costly chatter, excess carbon—all these pile up expense and defeat economy.

Yet the car itself is not to blame. The Ford can be, should be in fact, the most economical of all cars to operate.

Correct lubrication is the most important factor in economical Ford operation. This is because the Ford has a unique lubricating system.

Live News From Orange County Towns

WARNING SIGNS WILL BE PLACED AT DANGER POINTS ALONG COAST AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT BEACH, July 1.—Warning signs are to be placed at five dangerous places along the coast of Balboa and Newport beach, according to Captain Antar Deraga of the life saving service. At these points a strong rip tide makes it hazardous to go bathing. The signs are to be erected at the Palisades, the jetty point, and where Fifteenth, Sixteenth and Nineteenth streets front the ocean.

It was at Sixteenth and Nineteenth streets that drownings occurred last Sunday. To supply protection to bathers, the move was instituted by the Life Guard service.

The signs are expected to be in place by July 4, when crowds of visitors are being anticipated at the beach.

FATHER THINKS BOY MURDERED; OFFERS REWARD

FULLERTON, July 1.—Because he is not satisfied with the theory that his son, Terry, committed suicide at Olinda on April 13, and hoping for information which will lead to arrest of persons connected with the crime, E. E. Courtney, father of the 14-year-old boy, offered a $1000 reward for information which will lead to the arrest and conviction for whoever is responsible for the crime.

Terry, a member of the Fullerton high school student body, was found hanging to an oil derrick by a search party.

A coroner's jury reached a verdict by strangulation, but left the question of suicide or murder open to investigation by authorities.

Officer Looney Resigns Post On Anaheim Police

ANAHEIM, July 1.—The resignation of Motorcycle Officer J. C. Looney, was presented by the officer today to the local chief of police, J. S. Martin, who announced that he had accepted it to take effect July 2. Chief Martin declined to comment on the reason for the resignation and Looney gave no reason for his decision to retire from the police department. Looney has been a member of the police force since last February, when the present city administration took office, being one of the first appointees when the former police force was dismissed.

COLUMBUS KNIGHTS CONFER DEGREES

ANAHEIM, July 1.—Knights of Columbus council of Santa Ana, Pomona, Ontario, Whittier and Los Angeles, in addition to the local council, were welcoming many of their members into the ranks of second and third degrees today, following the initiation held here on Sunday, at which time 60 candidates representing these cities, were received into these higher ranks.

Following the initiation services which were in charge of Past State Deputy Joseph A. Scott, of Pasadena, a banquet was held at the Elks clubhouse, at which more than 360 persons were in attendance.

The state official, Mr. Scott, was assisted in the initiation work by visiting dignitaries and the drill team from the Los Angeles council. The event was recognized as the biggest of its kind in the Knights of Columbus activities in Southern California during the year.

Wives and guests of the visiting Knights were entertained at a reception held during the afternoon in the Elks clubhouse, by a committee of Anaheim women, with Mrs. William LaVecke in charge.

Anaheim Chamber To Have Annual Meeting Tonight

ANAHEIM, July 1.—Rev. Thomas H. Walker, pastor of the local Presbyterian church, will be the principal speaker at the annual dinner of the Anaheim chamber of commerce tonight, when he will address more than 300 guests on the subject, "The Chamber of Commerce—What It Means to the Community."

The annual banquet will be served at 6 o'clock at the Elks clubhouse, when men and women, representing various groups active in local and civic affairs, will be present. Harry D. Riley, the retiring president, will give a report covering the work of the chamber for the past year, and the aims for the future, while George W. Reid, secretary of the organization, will deliver a message on what the chamber will mean to the city of Anaheim.

E. E. Smith, chairman of the industrial committee, William Stark, chairman of the Community Industrial Land company, and A. E. Hargrove, chairman of the membership committee, will all make reports on the activities of their groups and outline plans for the year.

NOTICE
We will pay $5.00 reward for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of any one stealing papers, or money from paper racks placed on corners.

LICENSE LAW REVISION PUT UP TO KICKERS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 1.—Merchants who have been complaining about the city license ordinance will be asked to write their own ordinance, regulating the taxes of their competitors. It was announced today.

Failing to satisfy local merchants in drawing up an ordinance regulating licenses, the city board of trustees turned the matter over to the Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber of Commerce turned the matter over to the legislative committee, which is headed by the city attorney, L. W. Blodgett. Yesterday Blodgett asked that a special committee of the merchants, who are dissatisfied, be appointed to assist him in preparing a new ordinance.

Blodgett, in reporting to the Chamber of Commerce, declared that local merchants were expressing a willingness to co-operate with him in straightening out the tangles in the ordinance.

"I would like to have a committee of the business men effected by the ordinance appointed so that we can get direct opinions on the changes desired," Blodgett declared. The merchants committee will be appointed at the next meeting of the organization. Local merchants began complaining when itinerants with traveling grocery and fruit wagons appeared in town, the owners making a house to house canvass.

Anaheim Girls at Reserve Gathering

ANAHEIM, July 1.—Five delegates, members of the Girls' Reserve of this city, are representing Anaheim at the state convention of the organization in session at Asilomar, near Pacific Grove, members of the local reserve having joined the Orange and Santa Ana delegations with their supervisors. Those in attendance from this city include Misses Kathryn Adams, Elizabeth Schweinfest, Norma Brastad, Sarah Fay, Mabel White and Mary Beebe. The convention will be in session 12 days.

HOT SESSION OF CITY BOARD HELD AT NEWPORT BEACH AS TRAFFIC CHARGES HURLED

NEWPORT BEACH, July 1.—A thorough airing of charges made by Balboa people that, during the recent bathing girls parade here, a Newport Beach traffic officer turned the traffic back without allowing the cars to pass through to Balboa, was had at a special meeting of the city board of trustees last night.

Not much came from the meeting other than a promise to investigate the charges, determine who was guilty and to prevent recurrence of the situation.

In a petition from the chamber of commerce of Balboa, the official heads of those responsible for the reported condition were asked.

The resolution read at the council meeting, was signed by nearly 60 people who asserted that they had lost many dollars because "traffic was not permitted to enter Balboa."

Porter Denies Charges
Unqualified denial of the charges was made by City Marshal J. A. Porter. He branded the accusations as "nonsense" and asserted that he would remove any officer in his department that he thought "discriminated in favor of either end of the town."

A number of Balboa citizens were present and entered into a tense discussion. They said that uniformed officers reverted visitors from Central avenue to Bay avenue preventing them entering the beach city though parking space was open.

Present Sworn Statements
Sworn statements that officers stopped traffic and turned drivers back on the ground that no parking space was available were furnished in an affidavit signed by J. W. Morrison of Santa Ana.

The affidavit was attached to the resolution presented before the council by George Neill, secretary of the Balboa chamber of commerce.

Others who entered the discussion demanding an investigation were J. P. Greeley, Charles Way and W. L. Jordan.

No Action Taken
No action was taken by the council in the special session. Further investigation into traffic regulation in an effort to prevent a recurrence was decided upon.

It was pointed out at the meeting that identical conditions of congestion are faced each year. Last year, it was said traffic was reverted with a consequent loss of business and a disparagement of the reputation of the city among visitors.

Keep Your Wife From Drinking H. B. Judge Warns

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 1.—Women is the weaker sex, and the husband can keep her from drinking if he wants to.

So decreed City Recorder Harry Stewart, when H. R. Fulton, 23, an oil worker, and Esther Fulton, 22, his pretty wife, appeared before him on charges of drunkenness.

The couple were arrested in the downtown district Sunday night by Police Matron K. E. Sager. Judge Stewart imposed a fine of $50 on the husband, and severely reprimanded him for allowing his wife to drink liquor. Mr. and Mrs. Fulton reside here.

V. S. Hamlin, 36, of Long Beach was assessed $25 when he appeared before Stewart to plead guilty to a charge of drunkenness. C. A. Steele, 38, of this city, was fined $25 on the same charge.

Bible Students To Meet at Beach

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 1.—A conference of the international students of the Bible institute of Los Angeles will be held here July 28. It was announced today. The affair will be held at the beach pavilion. It is expected that more than 300 people will attend the convention.

A program, including speakers and music, has been arranged. Luncheon will be served to those who attend, according to local people who are in charge. Plans for the work during the coming year will be laid by the members of the organization at their business meeting.

During the hot discussion, criticism of the people who attended the Bathing Girls' review crept in. They were branded as a "cheap crowd" unwilling to pay a dime to park their cars. Much of the traffic difficulty was attributed to this cause.

Immediate steps for a remedy were assured by the city councilmen. Pressure will be brought to learn why visitors were prevented from entering the city, as it is charged.

CHAMBER HEADS GET JOBS AGAIN AT BEACH CITY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 1.—Officers of the Chamber of Commerce here were unanimously re-elected to serve again during the coming year. S. R. Bowen was re-elected to the presidency; Dale M. Peters to the first vice presidency, and C. P. Patton to the second vice presidency. J. A. Armitage was re-appointed secretary and treasurer.

The election followed the election of five new directors last week. Through work of the Chamber several important civic improvements have been secured.

Reports of various committees of the Chamber of Commerce were heard. Announcement was made by President Bowen that committees for the coming year would be selected at the meeting next week.

The revised constitution and by-laws of the organizations will be read and probably adopted at that time, he added.

Rev. Thornton Is Bid Farewell By Flock Members

FULLERTON, July 1.—Approximately 500 persons gathered last night in the Christian church to bid farewell to Rev. Walter Thornton for the past three years pastor of the church, and well known throughout Orange county as a genuine leader, and powerful speaker.

In his farewell speech, Rev. Thornton told of his keen regret at leaving Fullerton, and of the genuine attraction which the community bore for him. He said that if any one had been comforted, had been helped by his work in this city, that he was fully repaid.

L. O. Culp presented Rev. Thornton with a beautiful tie-pin as a gift from the Men's Bible Class, telling of their genuine feeling for him, and hoping him success in whatever new ventures he undertakes.

Other prominent businessmen who participated in the program were, George Raymer, C. C. Chapman, E. J. Marks, Arch McFarland, and Dale King. All of the men, representatives of some service club or city organization, expressed sorrow at the pastor's departure.

FULLERTON GIRL CAUGHT IN SANTA BARBARA HOTEL TELLS OF TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE

FULLERTON, July 1.—Miss Mildred Porter, local girl, who lives on West Orangethorpe Avenue, returned Monday night from Santa Barbara, where she was staying in the Arlington Hotel at the time of the earthquake which practically demolished the city.

Was Still in Bed
She said that she awoke at about 6:30 o'clock on the fatal morning, and was still in bed when she heard a deep roar, which grew deeper as it approached. She ran for the hall, knowing that an earthquake was about to strike the city.

"There was a crash, and then the walls were caving in, and people were knocked down all around," she said. "We thought that we were trapped in the building, as all stairways leading down were rapidly filling with debris from the falling walls. Then the manager of the hotel, who was on the same floor, opened a back door, and told us to escape. We were on the ground before any further damage was done."

"The coolness of the manager prevented any panic," she declared, "and we all got out of the ruins safely. We saw them carry away several dead and injured people who were in a higher portion of the building, and only then knew how lucky we were to escape."

Hire Boys to Get Suit Cases
"After the quake, we paid high school boys to enter the building and pack our suit cases. They displayed great bravery in doing this, but were well paid by many of the rich people, some of them paying as high as $10 or $15 to the youths."

Miss Porter said that soldiers and sailors arrived at the scene as if by magic, coming only a short while after the damage was done.

Further presence prevented any further panic, and any looting of the destroyed buildings.

Claims No Exaggeration
"I could look down the main business section, and see nothing but ruins—walls of large buildings down, and the entire street filled with mortar and brick from the awful shock," the eye witness declared. "It all seems like a nightmare now, but the newspapers haven't exaggerated in the least. Every word is true."

Miss Porter was seen sitting on the lawn of the hotel when friends, from Corona, were passing, and they brought her to Fullerton, where she is recovering from the effects of the shock.

Fire Laddies Are Annoyed at Picnic by Alarm

FULLERTON, July 1.—Members of the Fullerton Fire Department, attending the picnic given for city employees last night in the auto park near the outskirts of the town, were distinctly annoyed during the excellent steak dinner to hear the fire siren announcing a blaze somewhere in the community.

When the volunteers were preparing to leave for the alleged blaze, the fire truck drew up exactly opposite the site of the picnic, in answer to a call sent in by a spectator who had seen a conflagration on the side of a hill on the Harry Gantz ranch.

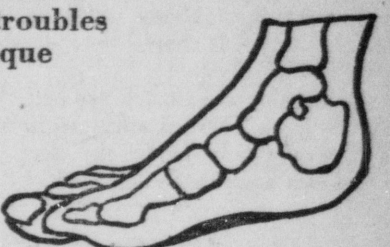

Investigation showed that a gang of men were burning brush on the hillside, and no damage was being done.

Their presence prevented any further panic, and any looting of the destroyed buildings.

WHAT WATER MEANS

Called upon for a talk yesterday while visiting the Santa Ana Rotary Club, Col. Ed. Fletcher, father of San Diego's water development, said that San Diego in ten years had increased its irrigated area from 10,000 acres to 60,000 acres.

"Water," said he, "is king, and we know it in San Diego county. We have built our dams with the knowledge that there was no other way of getting water upon lands that were almost valueless without water. And water is king throughout Southern California."

So it is. It is king, queen and the entire retinue of the royal household.

What would our own county be today were it not for water?

And what will this county be ten years hence if its water resources are neglected?

San Diego county may very well be taken as an example of what ought to be done by Orange county. If San Diego county had a Santa Ana river flowing through it, how much of the flood waters of that river would flow down to the sea?

PORRIDGE FORSAKEN

Scotch grocers and provisioners, meeting in Edinburgh, lament the decline of oatmeal porridge. There is a marked change, they say, in the national diet. Ham and eggs have become the great breakfast dish, and the average housewife will not trouble to prepare two courses for breakfast. The consumption of oatmeal has fallen off 50 per cent, they say. The grocers are contemplating a big publicity campaign to make porridge popular again.

Prof. Mellanby, a Scotch health authority, thinks they had better save themselves the trouble. Oatmeal is an inadequate and improper diet, he says, and responsible for the prevalence of rickets and various other ailments in Scotland.

To this the health officer of Edinburgh takes exception, insisting that oatmeal porridge is a fine, nourishing dish, if properly prepared. But there's the rub. The anti-porridge people say that, even if this is true, hardly anybody will take the trouble to cook it properly. It should be cooked long and carefully to be digestible.

Probably the Scotch are better off with their ham and eggs. There is more nourishment in them. And they may help repair the damage that a porridge diet has done to Scotch teeth.

DEBT PAYMENTS

European debtors are really paying their debts. On June 15, the same day that Americans had to pay their income taxes, the United States treasury received about $69,000,000 on foreign war loans. Most of it was from Great Britain, our largest debtor and readiest payer. But it should be observed that remittance came also from Finland, Hungary, Lithuania and Poland.

These little nations have done better than some of the big ones. France, whose debt ranks in size next to England's though talking much about paying, has never yet made any concrete proposals to pay, and is not likely to do so as long as she has active ways to finance. Italy's attitude is still more distant and vague. It seems unlikely that refunding arrangements can be made with either of those powers on any basis acknowledging their entire indebtedness, principal and interest. There will probably have to be drastic concessions, if America is to collect anything at all from them.

DRIVERS AND DRIVEN

Brunettes for driving! The owner of a big taxicab company says he trusts a dark-complexioned woman with a car more than a light one, because the former is likely to be more careful and conservative. Psychologists find this is a fundamental difference between the two types of complexion, he says.

If it applies to women, presumably it applies to men, too. Look therefore to a dark man for safe driving rather than an innocent-seeming blond. It is a queer inversion of stage standards.

By the way, it is divulged at the taxicab owners' convention that one American woman out of every three now knows how to drive, and one man out of every two. It's a driving age. And sometimes we think people are driven as much by machines as machines by people.

INDIAN BASEBALL

The Indians played ball in this country before the white man came. More than that, they played major league ball, if the autobiography of Black Hawk is to be credited. He tells how this was the great sport so far back that the memory of the red man runneth not to the contrary, and how big games used to be played in the Mississippi valley among friendly tribes, with 500 to 1000 men playing on a side.

This, needless to say, was not exactly our modern baseball. According to one authority, it combined the chief elements of baseball, football, basketball, lacrosse and hockey.

Anyway, it is evident now why ball is our national game. It must be in the soil or the climate.

BAYING AT CHINA'S HEELS

The Chinese slogan lately is said to be "a foreigner's life for every Chinese life." If this is true, it is not a Chinese idea. The Chinese learned it from the Christians.

And what is all the row about, that lives are being taken on both sides? The situation is confusing. There has been misrepresentation, no doubt, on both sides. But certain facts slowly emerge from the maelstrom, such as these:

First, the Chinese cables are in the control of outsiders, and the nations and influences most interested in making a good case for themselves control the news agencies. The Chinese have not had a fair chance to tell the world their side of the matter.

Second, such disinterested information as does leak through suggests that the Chinese, as usual, are more sinned against than sinning—that their outbreak of rampant nationalism and sporadic violence is a natural reaction to foreign oppression.

The faculty of the Chinese National University explain that the "anti-foreign" movement had its origin in economic abuses and political aggression; that it was at first mainly a rebellion against child labor abuses, maintained by foreign industrial interests in defiance of Chinese law, that hesitated not even at murder to accomplish their objects. The professors give names, dates and figures.

Dr. Charles K. Edmunds, provost of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, who was president of the Canton Christian College in China for 13 years, upholds this view, attributing the troubles to the merciless exploitation of Chinese workmen, women and children by foreign interests, along with the flagrant disregard of Chinese sovereignty in the seaport cities.

There is certainly a good deal of truth in this. And who owns China, anyway? America, born friend of freedom and traditional benefactor of China, may well go slow in joining the pack now baying at China's heels.

Can You Pass This Ex?

Redlands Facts.

It is within the jurisdiction of the Motor Vehicle department of the state of California to require an examination of applicants for license to drive a motor vehicle, on and after the 24th day of July, the date for newly enacted legislation to go into effect.

One of the most important acts of the last legislature was the enactment of this new statute governing the examination of motor vehicle operators. The existing motor vehicle act was amended so that after July 24 next, operators or applicants for operators' licenses may, in certain cases, be required to submit to an examination.

The experience of several eastern states indicates that some 15 to 25 per cent of those who apply for a license to operate a motor vehicle are not qualified to do so, and their applications are rejected. It has been claimed that accidents were reduced 50 per cent through examination of drivers. It is held by proponents of the measure that if it is true that one fourth of the operators cause one-half of the motor vehicle accidents, it is the duty of the authorities to ascertain what drivers constitute the one-fourth.

The new law provides that those who apply for a license after July 24 must answer certain questions, which are designed to reveal whether or not the applicant is physically and mentally fit to operate a motor vehicle and to understand high way warning and direction signs.

Should a person apply for an operator's license who has never before operated a motor vehicle, the law provides that at the discretion of the department he may receive a temporary permit. This permit he must always carry with him while driving and will be good for 30 days following the date of issuance, and will be valid only on condition that the holder be accompanied by a licensed operator at all times while driving on the public highways. Such licenses are sometimes called "pupil permits."

Should a person applying for an operator's license reveal in his application a limited experience as an operator or that there is some question about his mental or physical fitness to exercise reasonable control over a motor vehicle, then the department may require such person to submit to an examination as well as a demonstration of his ability to handle a motor vehicle under driving conditions.

Among the questions which will be asked of an applicant are those relating to his hearing, eyesight and whether the applicant has normal use of both hands and both feet, whether he has ever been afflicted with epilepsy, paralysis, insanity or other disability or disease which might affect him as an operator and whether he is able to understand highway warning and direction signs.

Claims Greatest Oil Field

Long Beach Press-Telegram.

June 25 marked the fourth anniversary of the discovery of oil on Signal Hill. In those four years 1,300,000,000 barrels of petroleum have been taken from this local field, and so many billion cubic feet of gas that no one has undertaken to compute it. Altogether much more than $200,000,000 worth of these products have been extracted from Signal Hill during this four-year span, an average of $50,000,000 or more a year.

Unless some unusually large strikes are made in the immediate future, Long Beach soon will relinquish its position of leadership among the oil districts of the West. It should be remembered, however, that its nearest competitor, the Midway-Sunset field, is in reality a combination of fields, which makes the comparison not entirely dependable. Should Long Beach be coupled with Dominguez and certain other offshoots, a fairer basis would be reached, and the aggregate production would be expressed in so large a figure that there could be no fear of defeat.

The local field has been remarkable further for the small percentage of dry holes, and for the fact that every satisfactory producer at the outset still is making oil. With a prospect for a large extension towards the northwest, where some fifty to 100 wells may be drilled during the fifth year of the field's life, and with higher prices for oil encouraging the rejuvenation of old wells and perhaps the drilling of new ones within the bounds of the district as defined by present production, Long Beach still will hold a proud position, relatively, in the records of Western petroleum.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. CLIFFORD C. ROBINSON

HEALTHY LUNGS

Healthy lungs simply mean lungs that are unimpaired by disease germs and respond to the free elastic movements of the chest, ribs, intercostal muscles and the diaphragm in the process of breathing.

Strictly speaking, there are no healthy lungs. All are more or less impaired, through invading dust, inhaling smoke and disease during childhood. Germs and microbes of many kinds gain entrance to the lungs by mouth breathing.

The bronchi and trachea have hair-like processes on the mucous membrane of their walls which do their best to expel minute foreign bodies and microbes from entering the lungs. But in spite of all efforts, these germs do get in and cause such diseases as influenza, bronchitis, pneumonia and tuberculosis.

The lungs in a pure healthy condition are a pearly white. Eskimos have the nearest approach to such lungs. The lungs of the city dweller are gray. The coal miner's lungs are much darker, sometimes nearly approaching black.

This does not mean that almost everybody has diseased lungs. The great majority are in fairly good condition, due principally to the fact that the lungs are great in recuperative powers. In fact, they are almost as good in this respect as the overused and much-abused heart.

To help your lungs in the fight against germs and disease you must at all times carefully observe the correct rules of respiratory health. The chest will not work in first-class condition if bent out of shape and restricted through improper posture, in its muscular movements. By keeping up your gymnastics and deep breathing exercises you can aid your lungs to healthy old age.

Remember that the lungs are a great aid to the heart in keeping up a good blood circulation. Well-developed lungs, combined with good breathing exercises, are a wonderful aid to your heart in its work for a long life.

Nobody Loves a Fat Guy Anyhow

Talent and Genius

By James Russell Lowell.

The world is always ready to receive talent with open arms. Very often it does not know what to do with genius. Talent is a docile creature. It bows its head meekly while the world slips the collar over it. It backs into the shafts like a lamb. It draws its load cheerfully, and is patient of the bit and of the whip. But genius is always impatient of its harness; its wild blood makes it hard to train.

Talent seems, at first, in one sense, higher than genius—namely, that it is more uniformly and absolutely submitted to the will, and therefore more distinctly human in its character. Genius, on the other hand, is much more like those instincts which govern the admirable movements of the lower creatures, and therefore seems to have something of the lower or animal character.

A goose flies by a chart which the Royal Geographical Society could not mend. A poet, like the goose, sails without visible landmarks to unexplored regions of truth, while philosophy has yet to lay down on its atlas. The philosopher gets his track by observation; the poet trusts to his inner sense, and makes the straighter and swifter line.

And yet, to look at it is another light, is not even the lowest instinct more truly divine than any voluntary human act done by the suggestion of reason? What is a bee's architecture but an unobstructed divine thought?—what is a builder's approximate rule but an unobstructed thought of the Creator, a mutilated and imperfect copy of some absolute rule Divine Wisdom has established, transmitted through a human soul as an image through clouded glass.

Talent is a very common family trait; genius belongs rather to individuals; just as you find one giant or one dwarf in a family, but rarely a whole brood of either. Talent is often to be envied, and genius very commonly to be pitied. It stands twice the chance of the other of dying in a hospital, in jail, in debt, in bad repute. It is a perpetual insult to mediocrity; its every word is a trespass against somebody's vested ideas—blasphemy against somebody's intangible private truth.

A GARDEN

What a thing a garden is
For sweet dreams and quietness!

Roses and lilies,
Narcissus, daffodillies,
Iris and phlox and stocks,
And the Sultan Hollyhocks,
Love-likes-bleeding—Love in a mist—
Pansies tawny and amethyst.

What a thing a garden is
For medicinal heartsease.

Lilac white and lilac blue
And a bird song in the dew;
Apple blossoms white and rose,
Blue forget-me-not, and those
Pinks that have a spicy smell,
Honest lavender as well.

What a thing a garden is
For the birds, for the bees.

Oh, from the dark earth to hale
Tulips and the primrose pale,
Hyacinths, all that run before
The full Summer's golden store
For to create, for to bid live
These so sweet, so fugitive!

What a thing a garden is
To bid grow, to increase!

Me and Artie keeping on going and him saying, Hay, G. I got a good idee how to make some money, all we haff to do is ring peeples frunt bells and ask them if they want their dog washed. Sure, G. thats a swell idee, that lady sed she wouldnt wash enybodys dog for a hundred dollers, so she awt to give somebody at least 50 cents to wash hers, holey myself, and I bet she aint the only one, I sed.

Sure, gosh, nobody likes to wash their own dog, Artie sed. And we started to ring doorbells to find out, the first one we rang being some lads doorbell with a dust-cloth tied erround her hed and her face all red from dusting things, properly being a hard duster, saying, Well, who are you, bringing me down from the 3rd floor in the midst of my work?

We're dog washers, I sed. Have you got any you want washed cheap? Artie sed. I wish I had 10 so I could sick them all on you, the lady sed. And she slammed the door shut with a fearse bang and me and Artie wawked about 2 blocks fether and then we rang another doorbell and a dog began to bark inside, sounding like a bludhorn or something, and we could hear some lady coming to the door saying, Get back, Nero, get back, mamma is very angry with you for biting the postman this morning.

Me thinking, Holey smokes, G. and Artie saying, G. winnickers, cheese it. And we both ran like the mischief and didnt stop till we got erround the corner and even then we wawked fast.

Being the last doorbell we rang.

A SONG.
A rush of trilling notes whose liquid music
The whole day long can make my heart rejoice.
It holds the golden magic of the summer;
Your voice.

An ocean vast whose deep and mystic waters
Hold all the green of hills, the blue of skies;
The surge of power, the bitter woe of shipwreck;
Your eyes.
The joy supreme which comes to one whose vision

And beauty sees, transcendent in the heaven;
Your love.

CHRONICLES OF THE LITTLE GRAY HOUSE.

We have realized what a rare distinction attaches to the Little Gray House, making it a very pearl without price among Little Homes. It stands alone in Orange county if not the entire southland, as being the sole one of its class and general characteristics, at whose side door, no Ford car is standing. With such an unusual state of affairs, we have decided that we belong in the list of rare and unusual sights and have determined to charge admission at the rate of five cents—a nickel—half a dime—to all who wish to gaze upon something few have seen, and few will ever have the opportunity to see again.

With the proceeds thus gained, we propose to buy a Ford car.

There is a certain friend of ours who is proudly hailed as the "Mother of Santa Ana Woman's clubs." Dear "Mother Mills" who reads widely—and wisely and among whose loved bits of verse is the following which we take great pleasure in passing on.

"SOME TIME AT EVE"

By Lizzie Clark Hardy

Some time at eve when the tide is low

I shall slip my moorings and sail away.

With no response to the friendly hail

Of kindred craft in the busy bay.

In the silent hush of the twilight pale,

When the night stoops down to embrace the day

And the voices call in the water's foam

Some time at even when the tide is low,

I shall slip my moorings and sail away.

Through the purpling shadows that darkly trail

O'er the ebbing tide of the Unknown Sea,

I shall fare me away, with the dip of sail

And a ripple of waters to tell the tale.

Of a lonely voyager, sailing away

To the Mystic Isles, where at anchor lay

The crafts of those who have sailed before

O'er the Unknown Sea to the Unseen Shore.

A few who have watched me sail away

Will miss my craft from the busy bay;

Some friendly barks that were anchored near.

Some loving souls that my heart held dear

In silent sorrow will drop a tear—

But I shall have peacefully furl'd my sail

In moorings sheltered from storm or sea.

And greeted the friends who have sailed before

O'er the Unknown Sea to the Unseen Shore.

Dear Patcher Lady:

I found this in Roundabout's Column in the San Diego Union:

"A shortage of brains is not such a terrible thing. Just keep your mouth shut, if you have a shortage, and nobody will know it."

And it reminds me of a very, very old one my dad used to tell when I was a boy:

An old man was sending his somewhat foolish son out into the world.

"Now, son," he said, "you are not very smart, but if you'll keep your mouth shut nobody will find it out."

The boy obeyed literally. And after he had kept his mouth shut when asked a civil question, the questioner exclaimed, "You're a fool!" Whereupon the boy wrote to his day, saying: "It's no use, dad, they found it out anyway."

Which goes to show that some of these wise sayings aren't so wise after all.

Dear Lady:—

This is just for you and the Little Gray House and not for the eyes of the world, writes Frances Stone. But her statement must be disregarded, for the song is lovely and I am so proud that my "Dream"—how wonderful to have a mountain—called forth such a reply and such an assurance. The mountain is to be mine.

Dear one you shall have your mountain reaching up so free, so high.

You shall climb your stony mountain hanks upheld to touch the sky.

While you listen to the music singing through the stately pine,

But remember, dearest lady, that the little pool is mine.

In that joyous summer morning while you revel in the dawn,

All alone upon your mountain you shall sing a happy song.

But I claim the sunset glory and that little singing brook,

And a bed of fragrant flowers in some quiet little nook.

I'll not see you on the mountain; you shall dream there all alone.

But at eve I'll come to meet you, hand in hand we'll hasten home.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 3—THE SOUR OLD WOMAN AND THE BALLOONS

"Now then," said the Green Wizard to Nancy and Nick, "when you knock at the door of the Sour-Old-Woman-Who-Lives-Under-the-Waterfall you must say: 'Balloonst Balloons!'

A bunch of balloons! They all go a-popping. The loveliest of tunes."

At that she will open her door instantly, because if there is anything the Sour-Old-Woman loves it is balloons.

"Why?" asked the Twins. "Because," said the Green Wizard, "she had her fortune told and the fortune teller said she would find her fortune through a balloon."

"All right," said Nick saying them over again to himself. "But what if she won't give us the key after we do get in?"

"We do anything she asks you," said the Green Wizard. "No matter what it is, do it. Then she will be sure to feel grateful and give you the key to the cupboard in Pixie Cave."

So the Twins started. They crossed a county and a township and a town and a hamlet, and at last they came to a rushing stream.

Then they went along the rushing stream about three furlongs and a league, and at last they came to a high waterfall which fell with a crash onto the stones below.

Under the waterfall was the
